Yesterday. THE GALLERIES PACKED TO HEAR HIM

His Remarkable Speech on the Tariff-Mr. Bandall and the Mills Bill-Other Washington News.

Washington, May & Special. —The mo' notony of the tariff debate wasbroken again to night by the maiden effort of William H. Martin, of Texas, the same who blew out the gas at Willard's. It had been heralded far and wide that the verdant Texan was to address the house on the tariff at 8 o'clock tonight, and long before that hour the galleries were and long before that hour the galleries were packed with an almost suffocating mass of numanity, a large minerity of which was ladies. Even the floor was well filled with members, but the most remarkable occurrence was that the capitol was lighted almost ex-clusively by electricity, only the gas jets above the figured glass ceiting being lighted. This was the work of Bob Talcott, the electrician, who gave as an explanation for his conduct that he feared the Texan, in his enthusiasm, might extinguish them in a similar manner to his almost fatal escapade at Willard's. his almost fatal escapade at Willard's. As the hands of the clock pointed to the bour of eight, the major appeared at the east loor in all his glory, bedecked in his "other" shirt and yellow jeans trousers. His long, surly hair had been freshly oiled for the maiden effort, and with a "muchly pleased" mile, extending to the roots of his hair, he is the surging and ignore and marched with riewed the surging andience and marched with stateliness to his desk,

THE HERO OF THE HOUR On his desk was awaiting him a beautiful bonquet of the choicest lilacs, the gift of Amos Cumming and Bob Vance. He was received with an outburst of applause, in recognition of which he waved his right hand to the galleries after the style of a Mexican bull-fighter.

Mr. Chipman, of Michigan, spoke for ten minutes, when the floor was accorded to the Texan. He made a break in the start by addressing the chairman as "Mr. President," created an uproar of laughter, but it subsided when he apologized by stating he hoped the audience would excuse him as this was the first time he had addressed "this great gislative body." He started out by telling the audience there was a "committee called the ways and means committee, and this committee, sir, has prepared a tariff bill; a good bill, sir, and one I am in favor of, sir. Another man has written a bill, sir-Mr. Randall, sir-but his bill carries little importance, sir, because it does not reach the crisis or emer-

This of course created an uproar, but the major was more pleased when

THE HOUSE LAUGHED AND APPLAUDED. and continued in a rambling way, roaring out his words like a lion and causing unbounded amusement. While he argued nothing, he lavored passing the Mills bill or fighting, say-"The republicans shall not vote against

He concluded by saying that the democrats would carry not only the south and most of the north, but all of the west, and he wanted "Cleveland put on the masthead," Such a scene has never been witnessed in he house previous to tonight, and it is doubtful if it will ever again be turned into such a heater of amusement and hilarity.

At the conclusion of the speech, congratulations were showered upon the "cowboy states-man," and he was left under the impression that his maiden effort was the greatest speech of the period.

CHARGES ANSWERED BY RANDALL. Mr. Randall has recently been charged by ds of the Mills bill, with trying to obstruct the passage of the bill by interposing appropriation bills. Mr. Råndall says this is false, and today said :

by fair means. If, as is unfortunately too able from the present indications, the tariff debate is dragged on the past last day of June, I am not responsible. The fiscal year ands with the last of June, and if no money has meanwhile been appropriated to continue the business of the government, I cannot be eld to blame. If congress does not consider the bills, the fault does not lie at my door." against the bill, but he has not yet determined whether or not be will participate in the debate, owing to his ill health. He has been quite tick for a week, but was on the floor a few minutes today, and if his health permits he ires to speak. However, it is not at all pertain, as he is yet suffering very much. THE DEMOCRATIC CAUCUS. The democratic caucus to be held tomorrow night will, in a measure, determine the fate of the Mills tariff bill, so far as its passage is conterned before the St. Louis convention. The bject of the caucus is to come to an under-standing between the friends and opponents of the bill. A number of conciliatory amend-ments will be offered and possibly adopted. The democratic members of the ways and means committee are more than anxious to have the bill go through the house before June 5th, but that can only be accomplished by the consent of the Randall faction of the party which, it seems, they will not get. Even though they could get that, their object could accomplished by the consideration of the bill at day and evening sessions, to the exclusion of everything else; otherwise, a final vote cannot be taken before the 25th of June. Mr. Randall will probably attend the cau-cus, but will not feel bound by its action in any

SENATOR VOORHEES APOLOGISES.

By request of many of his democratic col-leagues in the senate, Senator Voorhees today made an apology to the senate (but not to Mr Ingalls) for his unparliamentary language in last Tuesday's debate. At the time Senator Harris, of Tennesiee, was in the chair, Senator Ingalls having retired to his room. This mat-ter was evidently pre-arranged by the friends

Judge Stewart informed your correspondent today that he had received many letters from the north and west asking for copies of his speech, and, to supply the demand which he expects, has ordered 2,000 copies printed.

WHY FULLER WAS NOT CONFIRMED. The failure of the senate judiciary commitsee to act upon the nomination of Melville W. Fuller for chief justice of the United States yesterday has created considerable unfavorable comment against that committee and its chair-, Senator Edmunds. Senator Edmunds received hundreds of letters urging Mr. er's immediate confirmation, while he has wed a few protesting against it and alleing that Mr. Fuller was a "copperhead."
Action is said to have been delayed on account of these few protests from the most rabid republicans in order that Senator Edmunds may lave an opportunity to investigate these fanges of "copperheadism" against Mr.

on Monday, and it is charged the republicans of the senate want to delay the confirmation of Mr. Fuller until after the presidential election, in the hope of electing a republican president, and thereby getting a republican chief justice. Some of the republican senators who think the president has made a good selection deny these charges, and say Senator Edmunds wants to thoroughly understand the few charges against him and his full character before reporting. They say there is no use in fore reporting. They say there is no use in hurrying the report; that to do so would not be in keeping with the dignity of the senate, but that he will be confirmed in time. The mmittee meets again on Monday next.

VOORBEES APOLOGIZES. AZ AZ The Senator From Indiana Withdraws His

Unparliamentary Language. WASHINGTON, May 8.—At the conclusion of the morning business in the senate Senator Voorhees arose and, after stating that he had been ill for almost a week, said: "Referring to the discussion in which I par-ticipated last week, I desire to say to the senate that, however severe the provocation which was given, yet I made use of language at that time contrary to the rules of this body, parlia-mentary rules and usage and decorum of the senate.

mentary rules and usage and decease.

"I regret having used such language, and tender proper apology to the senate of the United States for doing so. My high respect for the dignity of this body, of which I have so long been a member, as well as my self respect, induce to me make this statement."

The senate then proceeded with routine business.

iness.
Mr. Ingalls was in his seat upon the floor of the senate, and Mr. Harris occupied the chair during Voorhees's remarks. When Voorhees had concluded, without any comment on his part, Mr. Ingalls resumed his seat as presiding officer.

The senate then resumed the consideration of the railroad land grant forfeiture bill question, being on an amendment offered yesterday by Mr. Palmer to one offered by Mr. Spooner on the 30th of April. The question was discussed by Messrs. Berry, Spooner, Teller and Palmer. The discussion was interrupted at 2 o'clock for the purpose of taking up unfinished business, the animal industry bill, but on suggestion from Cullom and Blair, unanimous consent was given to proceed with the land forfeiture bill until its completion, and so discussion went on. Finally Palmer's amendment was rejected. Spooner's amendment, confirming the title of Spooner's amendment, confirming the title of persons holding claims to certain described lands in the state of Michigan, was agreed to. Palmer offered an amendment that the bill should be construed as excepting from forfeiture that portion of the grant conferred by the state of Michigan on Marquette and Ontonagon railward country by the State of Michigan on Marquette and Ontonagon railward country by the State of Michigan on Marquette and Ontonagon railward country by the State of Michigan on Marquette and Ontonagon railward country by the State of Michigan on Marquette and Ontonagon railward country by the State of Michigan on Marquette and Ontonagon railward country by the State of Michigan on Marquette and Ontonagon railward of Michigan was agreed to Palmer of the State of Michigan wa gon railroad company, lying west of Lansing Agreed to after considerable discussion. Sev Agreed to after considerable discussion. Several other amendments were offered, but none of them were adopted, and with one of them pending bill went over till tomorrow. Bills were passed appropriating $6,000 for an addition to a public building at Jackson, Miss., and for the erection of a building at Vicksburg, Mississippi. Adjourned.

A DENIAL FROM HEWITT That He Apologized to the British Ministry-The Tariff Debate.

Washington, May 8.—Mr. Bryce, of New York, rising to a question of privilege in the house, read the language used by Mr. Woodburn, of Nevada, in reference to ex-Congressman Hewith having apologized to the British minister for offering a resolution of incurry as to the case of O'Donnell, under sentence of death in Great Britian.

Mr. Bryce stated that he had denied the correctness of the statement, and in vindication of his denial, he had read a telegram from from Mayor Hewitt, energetically denying that he had ever apologized to the British minister, and letter in which he details circumstances of case. Following is the telegram:

"Have just seen reports in the newspapers.
Mr. Woodburn's statements as reported are simply untrue. Mr. Brumm's statement is probably due to forgetfulness. He is entirely probably due to forgetfulness. He is entirely wrong. I never made any statement whatever in the house on the O'Donnell business, and never made any apology there or elsewhere. There was nothing to explain or to apologize for. The story that I apologized to the British minister was a lie, which I contradicted at once in the newspapers in which it emperced.

"No change was ever made in the house, hence

"No change was ever made in the house, hence I never had occasion there to deuy it. The newspaper charge was utterly false and was contradicted by Mr. West, as well as myself. You were quite right to interpose a flat contradiction, and I thank you for it. Will write more fully.

Mr. Hewitt's letter was also read. It is in the form of a tolegram and begins with the statement that "A lie once started never ceases to circulate, and every time it reappears it comes with new additions," The subject was then dropped and the house went into committee of the whole on the tariff bill.

Mr. Stockdale, of Massachusetts, took the floor in continuation of his speech in favor of the bill which was interrupted by adjournment last Saturday. He said that the cotton planter had received little consideration in legislation of the past. The cotton industry was the favorite of the colored men. In the name of justice and humanity, he appealed for relief for the colored people. They should no longer be held in servitude to the gizantic protected industries from which they derived no benefit and which they were under no obligation.

Mr. Hopkins, of Illinois, opposed the bill.

Mr. Hopkins, of Illinois, opposed the bill.
He entered his selemn protest against this attempt to overthrow the great business indus-tempt to overthrow the great business industries of Americe.

Mr Mansur, of Missouri, made an extensive speech in support of the Mills-bill and he contended that the internal revenue system should be maintained for the payment of pensions and the remainder of the war debt.

Mr. J. D. Taylor, of Ohio, denounced free trade as a fragment of the rebellion and as being as daugerous to the country in 1888, as secession had been in 1861. Free trade had no more right to supplant protection than the confederate constitution had to supplant the constitution of the United States. The democratic party was engaged in an effort to unful the British flag and open the American market to the British may nate turers.

The committee then rose and the house, at 5:30, took a recess until 8 o'clock, the evening session to be for debate on the tariff bill.

At the evening session of the house, Mr.

session to be for debate on the tariff bill.

At the evening session of the house, Mr. Stone, of Missouri, who stated that he would have to leave the city tonight, laid down propsitions that any article on which tariff duty was levied was necessarily increased in cost to the extent of duty; that the high tariff, by accumulating surplus, contracted the circulation; that the American manufacturer had nothing to fear from foreign competition on equal terms; that the tariff had nothing to do with maintaining a high rate of wages; that the protective system tended to concentrate wealth into a few hands, and that the increase of national wealth during the last thirty years is, in no possible sense, due to protection.

thirty years is, in no possiole sense, due to pretection.

Mr. Chipman, of Michigan, denied that the Mills bill was a free trade bill. He did not pledge himself in advance to vote, as he had some amendments to propose, but these amendments he would offer in perfect good faith, because he believed the bill to be an honest endeavor to benefit the people.

Mr. Martin, of Texas, made a speech on the tariff. The house then at 9:20 adjourned.

A Boiler Explodes. A Boffer Explodes.

MANCHESTER, N. H., May 8.—A terrific explosion occurred in the sash and blind shop of J. Hodges, on Elm street, this merning, totally wrecking the boiler house, smashing all windows for rods around and landing a heavy portion of the boiler on the corner of a dwelling house three hindred feet away. It is stated that three bodies have already been remeved from the ruins, and that several persons have been injured by flyin missiles. EWING'S DISGRACE.

A Government Official's Stealings Exposed.

INVESTIGATION OF HIS BOOKS-General Ewing, Disbursing Clerk of the De partment of Justice, $10,000 Behind

WASHINGTON, May 8.—It is understood tha General James W. Ewing, disbursing clerk of the department of justice, has been found short in his accounts from $8,000 to $9,000. Ewing is bonded in the sum of $10,000, and Representative Nathan Goff, of West Virginia, i one of his sureties. He is a union soldier of good record and is one of the best known in the country. He was appointed from West Virginia, and has held his present office for nany years.

Some months ago, the first comptroller of Distributing Clerk Ewing was somewhat slow in rendering his accounts, and said that it might be well to expedite them a little. The attorney-general called General Ewing's attention to the matter, and instructed him to be more careful in the future, General Ewing said he was delayed in the work by a lack of there should be no further cause for complaint He followed up his statement by submitting a large number of vouchers for the attorney-general's signature, which he said he had been unable to prepare sooner. These were transmitted to the accounting officers in the regular course of business, and made things all right for the time being. He fell behind again with the vouchers, how-ever, and the first comptroller made another complaint to the attorneygeneral. The latter became annoyed over the matter and determined that it should be thoroughly investigated. He, therefore, detheroughly investigated. He, therefore, detailed two trusty employes to the duty and instructed them to take immediate charge of the office funds, etc., and the disbursing clerk to report to him the exact condition of his accounts as shown by his books. This was several days ago and the investigation was completed today.

In the meantime a clerk in the first comptroller's office was detailed to examine General Ewing's accounts as shown by the records in the office of the accounting officers. The three investigators had a conference today and it is shown, so it is stated, that there is a discrepancy in the accounts of $8,000 of $9,000.

Attorney-General Garland and First Comptroller Durham were interviewed on the subject this afternoon, but neither was inclined to be very communicative. They each admitted that General Ewing's accounts were short, but be very communicative. They each admitted that General Ewing's accounts were short, but would not state the result officially. Attorney-General Garland said he had ordered the investigation as soon as necessary after it was brought to his attention. The committee had about finished their work, he thought, and would probably report to him tomorrow. He had, of course, a general idea of the state of affairs, but was not inclined to say much about it, until entirely satisfied that there was something wrong. He would say, however, that the interests of the government were fully protected in this case, for the reason that the bond was perfectly good for more than the amount in dispute. As for General Ewing, he had always found him exemplary in character and proficient in the business of his office.

First Comptoller Durham admitted that General Ewing's accounts were not altogether straight, but added that even if there was a shortage of $10,000, it was well secured by an official bond.

Subsequent inquiry revealed the fact that General Ewing's had been delinquent in recommenders to the subsequent in the content of the fact that General Ewing's accounts were not altogether straight, but added that even if there was a shortage of $10,000, it was well secured by an official bond.

official bond.
Subsequent inquiry revealed the fact that General Ewing had been delinquent in rendering his accounts as far back as 1882, and that over $5,000 of the money said to be unaccounted for belongs to accounts for 1882, 1883 and 1884.

A COWARDLY MURDER.

Atlanta rolled up, and as usual, all went out to see the train come in, some unknown miscreant crept up behind the unfortunate negro, as he was reclining upon the seat of his hack, and resting the pistol upon the panel of the hack fired the fatal shot that hurled the soul of Marcus into eternity. Death ensued instantly. No conjecture as to whom the perpetrator is has been formulated.

time during last night. His cell was discovered empty between five and six o'clock this morning. He dug a hole through a solid stone wall and lowered himself from the opening with a rope made from pieces of blanket.

Showers is seventy years old, and how he escaped detection in town, after his escape from prison, is a great mystery, as the jail is situated in the very heart of the city. The aged prisoner must have heen digging at the wall for some time past. He left behind him two letters, one addressed to his counsel and the other bidding defiance to the people who have threatened to lynch him.

Threatened Lynching.

Louisville, Ky., May 8.—John J. Cornelson, who, on December 30, 1884, horsewhipped Judge Richard Reed, at Mount Sterling, from the shame for which Judge Reed committed suicide, was brought here for safety from mob violence. Cornelson was arraigned at the time of the assault, but was not convicted until April 3rd, 1887, when he was sentenced to three years in jail, the offense not being a ponitentiary penalty. Coustant attempts have been made to secure Cornelson's release, on a writ of habeas corpus, and a suit of that nature is pending here now. Three citizens of Mount Sterling made affidavit yesterday that Cornelson was in danger of mob violence and he was brought here last night. His ground for the assault was that Reed decided the case unjustly against him. Threatened Lynching.

PHILADELPHIA, May 8.—David W. Vincent and Robert G. Hall were hanged in Moyamensing prison this morning, at 10-03, the former for murder of a safter named Carlofatti, and the latter for the murder of his mistress, Mrs. Lillian E. Rivers. Arrangements for the double execution, which was the second ever occurring in this country, were perfect in every detail and the affair was one of the most successful of its kind in the city's history. Death was found to be caused by shock and sufforation.

The Bond Purchases.

Washington, May 8.—Tenders of bonds to the treasury today aggregated $4,015,000, of which Acting Secretary Thompson accepted only $5,750 four per cents at 1252. The prices askeft for others were too high.

A Cotton Mill for Louisville. Louisville, Ky., May 8.—The citizens of Louisville today made a subscription of $200,000 to establish a cotton mill here, and the building will estarted immediately.

Distinguished Congressmen Who Attend the Races at Washington.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—[Special.]—Horse races seem to have a great attraction for statesmen, and the dry tariff debate of the past two makes has given them. meets has given them an opportunity to grat-ify their desires. In fact, on a number of af-ternoons a quorum of members could be found on the race track, while the halls of congress ternoons a quorum of members could be found on the race track, while the halls of congress were practically deserted. Our statesmen not only go to the track for the purpose of enjoying the races, but to place their "hard earned" money on their favorites. Some few hare won, but the majority have lost, and lost heavily. Georgia and South Carolina are both somewhat behind, and, indeed, the Kentucky and New York statesmen are the only ones who have been winners.

Congressman Matson, of Indiana, who was recently nominated for governor of that state, is an enthusiastic horseman, and every afternoon occupies a place in the front ranks of the congressional delegation. Senators Blackburn and Beck, and, indeed, the entire Kentucky delegation, are there almost every afternoon. Ingalls has also been there two or three afternoons, and the friendly drink he and Blackburn indulged in together has been the subject of much comment, owng to the bitter hostility which exists between exthese two men in the senate chamber. It is said that while these two senators were drinking together a Kentucky horseman walked up and said:

"Are you two fellows friends? I thought you were thirsting for each other's blood?"

"Yes," replied the senator from Kansas; "Oh, yes, we are friends—here."

Mr. Grimes is probably more fond of a horse race than any other member of the Georgia delegation, although the majority of them have taken a turn on the track.

Mr. Peiry, of South Carolina delegation who loves a horse race, for both senators and most of the representatives have been frequent attendants upon the spring meeting of the National Jockey club.

only one of the South Carolina delegation who loves a horse race, for both senators and most of the representatives have been frequent attendants upon the spring meeting of the National Jockey club.

Mr. G. H. Kernaghan, of Augusta, has his stable of fleet-footed flyers here, consisting of a half dozen splendid animals, among the number being Burch, "the fastest living." Mr. Kernaghan is, however, holding Burch for the Saratoga stakes. A couple of his two-year-olds were the only entries he made in the race, the belance of his stable not being in proper condition to run at present. He carried his stable over to Baltimore, yeaterday.

A FULL HAND.

The speaker of the house received this week, the Post says, the photographs of three bouncing babies from Marysville, Mo., the originals of which were all born at one birth in November, in Dekalb county, Mo., the mother and father both doing well. The names of the infants are Grover Cleveland Truex, John Carlisle Truex, and Alexander Dockery Truex, Mr. Dockery being the immediate representative of the three embryo democrats. Before Mrs. Truex had distinguished herself by her last effort, she had presented Mr. Truex with a pair of twins—both girls—the whole five within a period of ten months and twenty-four days. As threes, no matter how diminutive, can get away with any single pair—or, for the matter, double pair—Mr. Truex does not, as we understand, propose to try to better his hand, it being a "full," and, as near as the nature of the "deck" will allow, a "flush" as well. The boys, Mr. Truex thinks, have been named after the three greatest democrats living, for he makes no doubt that Mr. Dockery is "the ruling spirit of the fiftieth congress." If this doesn't make Mr. Dockery governor of Missouri at the next election, Mr. Truex will probably case his efforts in the procreative line.

**Mr. JUSTICE LAMAR DID 17.**

As the clock strikes twelve each day the little procession of supreme justices cross the corridor of the capitol from their robing-room to the anter-room o to the ante-room of the court chamber. On Friday they were three minutes late, something very unusual. When they did appear Mr. Justice Lamar walked behind, somewhat worried and embarrassed, for his had been the awful fate of the three minutes' delay. He had inadvertantly stepped upon the tail of Mr. Justice Matthews's gown, tearing several folds out of the shoulder of that sacred garment. Mr. Matthews could not bear the idea of appearing on the supreme bench with a tear in his gown, and so a rest was taken while a bailiff was sent hurriedly in search of the necessary articles to repair it. A female, with needle and black thread, was quickly found and the torn folds temporarily repaired. Three minutes were thus consumed, but, to make wp for it, the conscientious supreme bench sat until three minutes after four. preme bench sat until three minutes after four, eral Conference.

THE AFRICAN METHODIST CHURCH Eighteenth Quadrennial Session of the General Conference.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 8.—The eighteenth quadrennial session of the general conference of the African Methodist Episcopal church began here yesterday and was called to order by Bishop Payne. Two hundred and six delegates from foriy-one annual conferences, representing every state in the union, Canada, Bermuda and Demerara islands, make up the official roster of the conference. Among these are leading spirits of the church, including many men of more than national reputation. Bishop Wayman led in prayer and Bishops Turner and Disney conducted further religious exercises.

Bishops Turner and Disney conducted further religious exercises.

M. E. Bryant, of Selma, Ala., acted as organizing secretary and called the roll of the conference, when it was developed that there were many contesting delegates. Some of the delegates insisted upon the immediate verification of their credentials, but Bishop Campbell, who was it the choicet the time ruled that who was in the chair at the time, ruled that all these cases must go to the committee on credentials.

Rev. J. W. Gasaway, pastor of the church in which the conference is meeting, welcomed the delegates. He said that the governor and auditor of the state and "Noble Harrison" had sent words of welcome, accompanied by sub-stantial help. This information was received with applause, and Mr. Harrison's name particularly was enthusiastically received.
On behalf of the conference Dr. James A.
Handy, of Baltimore, and Dr. T. Tanner, of Philadelphia, returned thanks for the welcome.

The afternoon ceremonies were celebrated by Bishops Payne and Wayman. THE FLOATING CABINS.

Western Rivers Overflow Their Banks, Doing

Great Damage.

KANSAS, CITY, May 8.—A dispatch from Harrisonville, in Cass county, states that the storm at that place and in the southern part of the county Sunday was the worst ever known, the hall beating down growing grain to such an extent that in some portions of the county it was destroyed. On the farm of James Hoots, near Archie, the water in Black creek rose so rapidly that the cabin in which lived the family of James Denton was swept away, but the inmates were rescued. Grand river overflowed its banks, rising nine feet inside of two hours. A flock of sheep was swept away, forty-two of them being drowned.

From Butler, Bates & Co., much damage is reported to growing grain. The report that a family had been carried away in Arkansas river and drowned at Maize is false. The storm did great damage to crops and killed chickons and young animals. A very heavy storm prevailed.

The Catholic Knights.

CHATTANOOGA, May 8.—[Special.]—The state council of Catholic Knights of America met in this city this morning. In company with the supreme officers they took part this forencen in breaking ground for the new $110,000 cathedral which is to be erected in this city. An immense attendance was present. The cathedral is to be under root by September.

Damage Done by Frost.

Tuscola, Ill., May 8.—This section of Illinois was visited last night by a heavy frost, which, it is feared, will result in much damage to the fruit crop. Peach, apple and cherry trees are now in full bloom.

CHAIRMAN JONES ON THE RUMORS

for His Support-Conventions in Diff-erent Parts of the Country.

New York, May 9.—Chairman B. F. Jones, of the republican national committee, is at the Windsor hotel. He had pressing business engagements which prevented him from giving more than a few moments to a reporter of the Tribune, who called on him. He was asked: "Have you received any letter from Mr. Blaine since his letter of withdrawal?"

"1 have not; neither do I know of any letter "Will he accept the nomination if it inten

"I don't know."

"What do you think?" "Well, what would you do if the nomination was tendered to you?"

"But he has withdrawn as a candidate." "Certainly he has. But if the convention should nominate him that is quite another That is the action of the people.' "How about the Pennsylvania delegation? Is it for Sherman, as reported?"

"Only the delegates at large and a few of the district delegates have so far been elected. It is therefore impossible yet to say what the delegation will do."
"There is a story, Mr. Jones, that in 1884

Walker Blaine brought to you and S. B. Elkins a letter from his father, directed to Senator Conkling, asking his support, which was left to your discretion to deliver or not, and that it was not delivered?" "I never saw or heard of such a letter. It is a story of the same character as the reports now being spread that Mr. Blaine has written a letter withdrawing his withdrawal; that he will write a letter refusing to accept the nomination if it is thendered to him, and that he i a very ill man and so on."

TENNESSEE'S BIG MEN.

They Are All Sheltered Under the Saur NASHVILLE. Tenn., May 8 .- [Special.] -Over a thousand delegates come in today, and the streets and hotels are full of men, excitedly discussing the probable outcome of the democratic gubernatorial convention. There is a great deal of feeling manifested, and tomorrow promises to be the warmest convention ever held in Tennessee. The question now is conceded to be Taylor or anti-Taylor, and there is no longer any doubt that it will be anti-Taylor. The fight will be made from the very start, and not an inch conceded by either party without a fight. The election of the temporary chairman will test the strength of Taylor and anti-Taylor vote, This is the knowing figure out on the first ballot: Go vernor Taylor, 450 to 500; J. M. McConnell. 350 to 450 Hon. W. H. Caldwell, 250; Hon. W. S. Daniel, 300; Hon. Julius A. Trusdale from 150 to 250 and all the boys are not out of the woods yet either. There is nothing like watching the either. There is nothing like watching the count, however, as the negrosaid when he was playing "Old Sledge" with the white men. The gubernatorial candidates all have quarters at the Maxwell house. Hon. W. P. Caldwell occupies rooms 23 and 26; Hon. Julius A. Trousdale room No. 8; Major McConnell rooms 57 and 7: Governor Taylor rooms 9, 10, 11, 13 and 14; Hon. W. M. Daniel rooms 16 and 17; Hon. S. G. Heiskell, chairman of the executive committe, is in room No. 12.

WHITE MOUNTAIN REPUBLICANS, Mr. Blaine's Name Greeted With Cheers

Mr. Blaine's Name Greeted With Cheers—Delegates Elected.

Concord, N. H., May S.—The republican state convention to elect delegates to the national convention met today. It was called to order by Congressman U. H. Gallinger, who made a short address of congratulation upon the favorable outlook for the party. His reference to Mr. Blaine was greeted by long, continued applause. Henry E. Burnham, of Manchester, was chosen permanent chairman. The platform is entirely an arraignment of the democratic party. The delegates at large to Chicago were chosen as follows:

Pierson Cheney, Manchester; Jacob H. Gallinger, Concord; Hiram A. Guttle, Pittsfield; Alfred T. Bachelder, of Keene. The delegates at large were uninstructed, but the presidential preferences were understood to be as follows: Cheney and Bachelder for Depew; Gallinger for Harrison, and Tuttle for any man who can carry New York.

Harmonious Convention-The Adminis tration Indorsed.

Wilmington, Del., May 8.—The democratic state convention assembled at Dover at 1:20 p. m. Robert Hill, of Smyrna, was made permanent chairman. The following delegates to St. Louis were chosen: New Castle county, L. C. B. Vandergrift, E. O. Cochran; Kent, W. A. C. Hardcastle, C. J. Harrington; Susex, W. F. Consey, W. H. Stephens. The platform renews the pledges of the democrats of Delaware to the principles of the party; indorses the administration and course of Mr. Bayard as secretary of state; indorses President Cleveland's views of, the tariff and his opposition to monopoly and trusts; favors his renomination, and closes as follows:

Resolved, That we indorse and favor the passage of the bill now before congress known as the Mills tariff bill. tration Indorsed.

Irishmen Will Shape Their Own Politics and He Will Stand Up to Them.

London, May 8.—The Righty club gave a banquet to Mr. Parnell this evening. Herbert Gladstone, Earl of Cavan, and all leading Parnellites were present. It. Parnell, on arising to speak, was received with prolonged cheers, and Mr. Parnell, speaking of the pope's rescript, and he spproached the subject with unwillingness, and didnot think it his business as a Protestant, to vindicate the freedom of Catholica. He was convinced that the Irish Catholics knew their political duty and how to vindicate themselves. There was not anybody, however high or influental, to influence them in their political views of the country, a thing that had been repeatedly tried from Rome, but had always failed. With regard to the plan of campaign when that was instituted, he was dangerously ill and compelled to refrain from all work. He confered herefore from Rome, but had always failed. CROPS IN THE NORTHWEST.

The Weather Unfavorable and the Ground in Bad Condition.

St. Paul, Minn., May 8.—On the 5th of May last year seeding in Minnesota and Dakota was finished, and the crop had been put in the ground in excellent condition and under the most favorable conditions of weather. This year the season has been backward and cold, and more rain fell in the state in April that ever before. The late rains have stopped seeding entirely in nearly all parts of the northwest, and the ground is wet and cold. No progress has been made during the last week, and unless the weather is of the best nothing can be done for nearly a week more. This is particularly true of the southern part of Minnesota, In many of the southern coun ties the ground was wet before the last rains, and in some places is now covered with water, so that it will be a week before teams can be taken into the fields, even with the best of weather from this time. Farmers are getting discouraged over the situation, but with ten days of good weather the remainder of the crop would be sown.

Chief Justice Fuller's Wavy Hirsute Adors ment in Danger. CHICAGO, Ill., May 8 .- It was whispered to day, and it was a source of grief to everybody, that the new chief justice's flowing, wavy, generous and entirely admirable and becoming mustache would have to be sacrificed as an offering to the tradition of the supreme court. It was said that tradition which with such august bodies is as the breath of ife, had established the usage of a clean shaven up per lip, even where other hirsute adornments wen permitted. Mr. Fuller's mustache is undoubtedly a thing of Leauty, and therefore a loy forever. If it falls a victim to the "barberous shears," his fine face will lose something of its force and completness. The Fight Between Burnside and Crawford, Eloquent Tributes and Thrilling Reminis cences Some Corrections and Addi-tional Facts,

EDITORS CONSTITUTION: The Sunny South of the 7th instant contained an interesting ar-ticle concerning General Ambrose E. Burnticle concerning General Ambrose E. Burnside and other members of the Burnside family, written by Samuel M. Duncan, of Nichclasville, Ky,
The article contains several inaccuracies concerning Thomas Edgehill Burnside, (an uncle of General Ambrose E.) and his family, which I will undertake to correct. They are perhaps, unimportant to the general reader, but nevertheless it is perhaps proper that the exact facts should be given, especially when such facts are attainable. Some of the facts which I am about to give, were furnished me by General Burnside during my acquaintance with him in Washington city in 1872, the re-maining facts were obtained from William Andrew Burnside, the youngest son of Thomas Edgehill Burnside, during an acquaintane with him as a citizen of Lumpkin county for nearly forty years past.

Thomas E. Burnside was born in South Car-olina in 1794. His father was a Carolinian and his mother was an English lady, reared in Jamaica, but fled that island during the negro insurrection, and landed in South Carolina with other refugees from that country. He was admitted to the bar in Columbia on the 2d day of December, 1817. I have now before me his license to practice as solicitor in the courts of equity in that state, to which are attached the names of the following distinguished jurists: Henry William Desaussure, Theodore Gaillard, Thomas Waites, William D. and Waddy Thompson.

He shortly thereafter moved to Georgia and married Miss Catherine Wood, of Wilkes county; and on the 2d of March, 1819, was admitted to practice law in Georgia, and lo cated at Appling, Columbia county. In the autumn of 1822, he was elected to the general assembly of this state and continued a mem-ber of that body until his unfortunate death, which occurred on the 5th of January 1828, in a duel fought with the Hon. George W. Craw-

Mitchell, in Alabama, some ten miles or more from Columbus, Georgia, and the body of Burnside was interred in the private burying ground of Colonel Crawley, a warm friend of the deceased, whose residence was not very far from the spot where he fell.

The causes which led to the duel may not be easily explained at this late day. Politics in Georgia at that time ran high—as the saying goes. Indeed, it appears that no campaign occurred after the revolutionary war, that was not close and acrimonious up to the time of which I am now writing. Duelling was common. Governor Button Gwinnett had been killed by General McIntosh; Peter Van Allen, a cousin of Martin Van Buren, had been killed by William H. Crawford, William Hunter had been killed by Governor David B. Mitchell and numerous other cases had occurred before that time. Mr. Burnside, early in life espoused the side of democracy. The Crawford family were whigs. They were wealthy, powerful and influental. Controversies often arose between members of the two political parties, and was carried on with great bitterness by means of newspapers, pamphlets and handbills. I have before me, as I write, a package of papers and handbills containing some of the articles which led to the combat.

The Augusta Chronicle and Advertiser was the democratic organ of that section, and the Chronicle; but I have heard it stated that Mr. Burnside was the principal political editor and writer, though residing in Columbia county. Judging from the articles and handbills I have read, the controversy was hot, to say the least of it.

Peter Crawford, father of the Hon. Geo. W. Crawford, seems to have been prominent in the ranks of the Whigs. He is severely criticised by pamphlets and handbills, as well as through the democratic papers in reply to equally bitter articles promulgated by Mr. Crawford and his friends in like manner. I cannot find the articles which precipitated the fight. It has been stated to me, however, (perhaps by the late Colonel D. W. Lewis, who was for many years just after the death of Burnside, the private secretary of Governor George R. Gilmer,) that the offensive article was written by a lady contributor, and that the name of the author was demanded of the was written by a lady contributor, and that the name of the author was demanded of the editors of the Sentinel. The address of Colonel Z. Williams on retary. The address of Colonel Z. Williams on that occasion was eloquent and full of tender sympathy for the deceased and his family. I copy a single paragraph only from the speech: "I could say much, gentlemen, upon this melancholy occasion, if my feelings would allow utterance to my tongue; but I forbear, believing as I do, that you are all well acquainted with the circumstances that led to the unfortunate catastrophe, and I am convinced that there is not one individual in the sound of my voice but knows and appreciates his worth, and feels as I do—that his every yein flowed with honor, patriotism, love of nis worth, and reess as I do—that his every vein flowed with honor, patriotism, love of country, and that he died a martyr to its cause. Fellow citizens, did I possess the power of Demosthenes or Cicero, I should fail in the attempt to do justice to his memory. Therefore, the greatest eulogy that I can bestow, is to mourn his loss with you, in a silent sympathetic tear."

The bar of the middle circuit held a meet-The bar of the middle circuit held a meeting. John Burch was chairman, and George S. Walker acted as secretary. The resolutions, which were presented by Thomas Glasscock breath a spirit of exalted respect for the memory of the dead, and sympathy and condolence for the widow and children.

A movement was then and there set on foot by his friends to erect a monument condolence.

A movement was then and there set on foot by his friends to erect a monument over his grave. Nothing of the kind was ordered by the legislature, as Mr. Duncan remarks, Whether anything was finally done towards this object the writer of this is not advised.

The following letter, written the night before the fatal dual was perhaps the lett be lett. fore the fatal duel, was perhaps the last he ever wrote. I quote from the original, which is in a plain, legible and firm hand:
"For MITCHELL, 4th January, 1828.—Dear Wife and Mother: Temofrow I fight. I do it on principle. Whatever may be my fate I believe I am right. On this ground I have acted and will act. I believe I shall succeed, but if I do not, I am prepared for the consequences.

on this ground I have acted and will act. I believe I shall succeed, but if I do not, I am prepared for the consequences.

"Kiss the children, and tell them that if I fall my last thought will be about them. Yours most affectionately.

Thos. E. BURNEDE."

The Milledgeville Statesman and Patriot of February 4th, 1828, paid the following glorious tribute to the memory of the dead man: "Possessing an amiable disposition and talents far above the common order, he soon acquired the confidence, respect and esteem of his fellow citizens. * * Firm and unwavering in his political course, he enjoyed the warm attachment of his friends, and commanded the respect of his adversaries. Faithful to his constituents, and able and zealous in the maintenance of their rights, he was always found advancing their true interests. As a friend, he was ardent and sincere; as a neighbor, brother, soon, husband and father, the tears that embalm his memery attest the excellence of his character and proclain the greatness of his loss. * *

* But alas! he has untimely fallen, not by disease, but by the pistol—another victim to the tyranny of a remorseless custom. In yielding to its despotic mandate, he courted not the character of distinction of a duelist; nor sought he the bloody arena to reap its trophies. No. He was hidden to the field! The customs of society rendered the call imperious, and, like many others, he yielded to their sway.

"All the pride of worldly wisdom has hitherto been ineffectual to resist the bloody mandates of this ruthless custom. A Hamilton and a Decatur were unable to withstand its power. Spare them, thou rigid moralist, thy reproaches, unbend thy brow of displeasure and drop a tear on the untimely grave of its hapless victim. By his death the state has sustained a loss; the county of Columbia is deprived of a faithful and zealous representative; the bar of one of its most estimable members; a widowed mother of the prop of her declining age; a doating wife of a beloved husband, and three helpless children are plunged into a state of unanticipated orphanage. Cruel relentless custom! are these thy trophies? are these thy triumphs? Almighty God! how much more human blood must crimson the field of single combat. Oh! how many more of thy creatures must be sacrificed on its ensanguined altar.

Lamented Burnside, fare the well! ——if ever fondest prayer,
For others weal avail on high,
Mine will not be lost in air,
But want thy name beyond the sky.

This duel caused more excitement in Georgia than, perhaps, any other that ever occurred within the state. The distinguished character within the state. The distinguished character of the parties engaged in it, coupled with the fact that one was a whig and the other a democrat, enlisted the feelings of almost every voter in the state. It, doubtless, more than any other personal conflict, led the people to make a crusade against duelling which finally led to constitutional and statutory provisions against the custom, and blotted out the code duello as a means of sattling personal diffiello as a means of settling personal diffi culties.

A few years after the death of Mr. Burnside, his widow moved to Lumpkin county with her three orphan boys. She lived a number of years in Dahlonega. Her life was quiet and unostentatious. It is not known that the event which deprived her of a husband was ever mentioned outside the little family circle. Her remains as well as these of her two senses. ever mentioned outside the little family circle. Her remains, as well as those of her two sons, Thomas Edgehill and James Wood Burnside, are buried side by side in our village cemetery. Her youngest son, William Andrew Burnside, at the age of sixty, and unmarried, lives among us, greatly respected for his many noble traits of character. For many years he was the editor and owner of the Dahlonaga Signal, and ordinary of the county. Of late years he declines all offers of political preferement, dividing his time in looking after his personal affairs and those of the North Georgia Agricultural college, of which institution he has been an active trustee ever since its incorporation and establishment.

of the three sens of Thomas Edgehill Burnside, one of them, Thomas E., (named for the father), died in Dahlonega some years before the war. James W., and William A., though active friends of the confederacy, were not captured at the battle of Winchester as Mr. Duncan states Duncan states.

Geo. W. Crawford, the successful combatant Geo. W. Crawford, the successful combatant in this unhappy duel, became famous in the annals of the state and nation. He was governor of the state, a member of President Taylor's cabinet, and president of the state convention which passed the ordinance of secession, besides other places of distinction. Perhaps no one deplored the occurrence more than himself; and until the day of his death he expressed the fondest solicitude for the widow and children whose helpless condition he had caused.

Bonds to be Issued.

CEDARTOWN, Ga., May 8.—[Special.]—An election was held here yesterday on the issuance of bonds for public school buildings, at which 101 votes were cast for the bonds and none against the bonds.

The unanimity with which these bonds are authorized and the fact that they bear 7 per cent interest per annum payable semi-annually, make them a fine investment for money.

Robbed. A young white man named Robert F. Duke was overpowered and robbed by a negro last night on Whitehall street, near the corner of Humphries. He arrived on the Central road at 8 o'clock from Casino, Florida, on his way to Tallapoosa. He had left the depot and got lost. Meeting a darky he inquired the way, and the darky offered to go and quired the way, and the darky offered to go and show him. The young fellow was nervous and kept his hand on his left pants pocket. This seems to have attracted the attention of the negro. Suddenly be turned upon young Duke, and brandishing a knife demanded his money. In the scuffle that ensued the young man's wrist was cut. The darky got his band in the pocket with the money in it, and then ran off with $18, a trunk check and a receipt—all Duke had. The young man reported his loss at police, headquarters, and stayed there last night.

The Third Party. ATLANTA, Ga., May 8, 1888 .- Messrs. Editors: If you will please allow space in your columns for a few remarks on the third party I shall be much obliged. The prohibition party may be likened to a Pharos of civilization because pointing out new lines and a new phase of proceedure. Parties come and go as exigencies require or do not require them.

The democratic and republican parties banging at ach other for years had little else in view than t division of spoils.

Now, the prohibition party recruited from the intelligence, culture and conscientiousness of both old parties, looms in the front having as its object progress on a separate path-the path of duty. Circumstances similar to those which swept away former parties point out, that the missions of repub-cican and democrat are drawing to a close on ac-count of the incompetency of their platform, of their intentions and power to grapple with coming events. Never was greater need of impulsive movement than now.

Southern intelligence divided and antagonized in two parties unites in the third, and the south be-comes still more solid; solid for integrity, improve-ment, education, morality, reform; solid as the granite rocks of Georgia for duty; solid against prejudice. The clarion sound of progressive effor heard on the hillsides and in the valleys calls upon men hopelessly waiting for good times, to strike as one in a given direction and tegether. And they have heard the sound, and are coming grimly in. We must move with the times. THE CONSTITUT s behind the times when it croaks about the all-suficient democratic party.

Prohibition is ahead of everything that means progress.

Reforms must spring from a fountain-head, and this is why the prohibition party proposes to deal directly and at once, by means of both old parties united and acting together in a third party, with Washington as the only place where abuses can be immediately rectified; monoplies and trusts abol-ished; the tariff question straightened out; and pro-tection ensured for every kind of labor as well as

If we would build up a large business it is neces. sary to get somewhat out of the beaten track, and so if the people would control their own affairs nationally, and have their say in the vital questions of the day, they must deal first, last, and all the time preponderatingly at Washington. This is one of the foremost planks in the prohibition platform. To be unitedly and fully represented at Wash-ington by men holding identical views on identical subjects is to possess the key of the situation, and only by means of laws fiamed and passed by a special party, every member imbued with the same motive, of design and duty on these national points, can come government for the people, by the people, through the people. Disagree at home terminate with agreement antagonistic parties rendered less po through mutual concord of the people, become bitter while the nation, one conglomerated whole, solid as the hills on the liquor traffic and every national reform, draws all particles and isms into its centrifugality (because converted to unity) and moves ahead smoothly, as machinery in one splen did march along the highway of progression; and we shall witness in the removal of abuses, thus, and thus only, brought about the grandest triumph of the nineteenth century.

The prohibition party seeks to destroy other par-The prohibition party seeks to destroy other par-ties by amalgamating them with itself, and this be-cause neither of the old parties are able to carry out reforms needed by the times. Being made up of the combined intelligence of both parties and of the state it rep resents concentrated progress.

The prohibition movement is rightly timed. To wait is to connive at the supremacy of the democratic party which cannot carry out national reform, and which laughs at and would fail to introduce suitable means, supposing prohibition sided with it.

Prohibition has precedents for its platform and therefore far from curtailing rights and privileges, opens up a way and methods to secure results, necessary allke to laborer, capitalist and citizen. EDWARD MURRAY.

From the Chicago Herald.

Secretary Fairchild's argument against small is us of paper fractional currency is based or sound administrative objections. How will the currency be uttered? There are already $25,000.00 of small change in the treasury that have been there over four years and that show no tendency to get into trade. An issue of the paper, to be general, would need to be very large. The secretary shows that the expense goes nearly to par of face value. In 1875, when small silver first made its reappear

In 1875, when small silver first made its reappearance, its convenience was universally acknowledged. It filled small space in the pockets, it did not carry disease, it was clean and cheerful. The only demand now for the little paper notes is for purposes of trade through the mails, and it is well that this line of industry should not be too highly encouraged. The postal notes will answer this need. The money of the United States is already diverse in its elements. It seems like a step backward to attempt to saturate this vast nation with a paper fractompt to saturate this vast nation with a paper frac tempt to saturate this vast nation with a paper frac-tional currency. The task, too, Secretary Fairchild holds, would be immeasurably greater than the congressmen can conceive it to be. Shining Gold.

Other Medicines Fail.

Having been a sufferer for two years and a half from a disease caused by a bruise on the lex, and having been cured by the CUTICURA FE EDDISS when all other methods and remedies failed, I deem it my duty to recommend them. I visited Hot Springs to no avail, and tried several doctors without success, and at last our principal druggist, Mr. John P. Finlay (to whom I shall ever feel grateful), spoke to me about CUTICURA, and I consented to give them a trial with the result that I am perfectly cured. There is now no sore about me. I think I can show the largest surface where my sufferings sprang from of any one in the state. The CUTICURA REMEDIE: are the best blood and skin cures manufactured. I refer to druggist John P. Finlay and Dr. D. C. Montgomery, both of this place, and to Dr. Smith, of Lake Lee, Miss.

ALEXANDER BEACH, Greenville, Miss.

Mr. Beach used the CUTICURA REMEDIES, at our request, with results as above stated.

SCROFULA 7 YEARS CURED. I have been troubled with scrofula seven years, which first started on the top of my head, giving me infinite trouble, with constant itching, casting off of dry scales, and a watery liquid exuded from under the scales. I treated it for seven years unsuccessfully, and was unable to check it until I found your CUTICURA REMEDIES. One box CUTICURA One cake CUTICURA SOAP, and one bottle CUTICURA RESOLVENT completely cured me, my skin becoming perfectly clear and smooth.

TESTIMONIALS. Editor D. F. McCall in Union Springs, Ala. Herald, March 21, 1888.

Herald, March 21, 1888.

The senior editor of this paper has just returned from a visit to the Electric shaft at Hillman, Taliaferro county, Georgia, and publishes his experiences and observations there as an answer to about three score of letters and inquiries about the place, received up to date. Judging by the logic of results it is impossible not to conclude that it is indeed a wonderful place. We do not expuse to say that the Judging by the logic of results it is impossible not to conclude that it is indeed a wonderful place. We do not assume to say that the mysterious force which apparently cures the maladies of those who try the shaft, is electricity, but in our own personal experience we know that we went to this shaft with a severe attack of rheumatism in the knees and elbows and also acute neuralgia in the eye, and that in ix days we were entirely cured of rheumatism and greatly relieved as to the neuralgia. We saw people who were brought to this electric shaft on beds and crutches, unable to walk from rheumatism, who went away rejoicing in renewed health and activity. This was done without the aid of any medicine, the patients sitting in the shaft most of each day, and the theory being that they absorb the electricity, which effects the cure, from the electric rock in the shaft.

Whatevor may be the power at work, the above statements are absolute facts, the lame have been made to walk and the sleepless man has again found "tired nature's sweet restorer," at the Hillman Electric Shaft. During the beat was pulled for, and were taken on board at 6 p. m., Sunday, having then been in the boats about five hours. The brig was high proving the Caroline Gray, of Rockport, Captain Pitts-burg, from Fibarien for Philadelphia.

At 2 p. m., Monday, Captain Quick and crew were transferred from the brig to the steamer Dessong from Savannah for Philadelphia, and were landed here at 8 o'clock this morning.

catechised on the subject, only three said that they had not been benefited.

Everybody knows Colonel D. Pike Hill, of Georgia. He has been as prominent in Georgia matters for thirty years as almost any man in the state. The colonel has been and is now at the electric shaft at Hillman, and sends us the following certificate, signed by himself, J. M. Pruitt, of Mississippi, S. B. Boyd, of Tenuessee, Julia F. Wilson, Hancock county, Ga., George Dyson. Washington, Ga., and J. D. King, lof Toronto, Canada:

To The Constitution: The undersigned visitors at the Hillman Electric Shaft, while many of us here have been benefited, some have not, and in view of the fact that this strange phenomenon as a curative agent is attracting so much attention, deem it proper to tell what we have seen persons after being in the saft for ten or fifteen minutes, become so affected that they would tremble like aspen leaves for hours after leaving the shaft, and with no fill effects, but on the contrary professing to be relieved from pains and aches. Now that this place will cure all who come we do not believe, but we believe many sufferers of nervous diseases will be healed by the treatment used here. The climate is superb, the water excellent, with slight tinge of iron and other substances, all of which is conducive to health, independent of the shaft. While some have been cured as by magic, others improve slowly, but all who give the place a fair trial believe themselves benefited."

This is signed by the above named parties.
Colonel Hill went down last week. He was a skeptic when he started and was only prevailed on by his family. He has suffered some time with rheumatism, and when he made up his mind to go down he said he was going to investigate the well closely and report what he found out about it, and the certificate is the result of his investigations so far. Colonel Young L. G. Harris, of Athens, one of the best known and reliable business men in the state, writes to Major B. F. Brown, manager of the shaft, about a niece of h

Accommodations...

The eccently erected Electric Mound Hotel is a 44 room house, modern in its construction and conveniences, of new and approved equipment, an excellent table and superior service. Bath rooms, provided with hot and cold water, are conveniently ranged on each floor, and a supply of pure free stone water is forced by team power a distance of twenty-three hundred feet to the summit of the hill upon which the hotel stands. It is within a few hundred yards of the elec-tric rooms, and about a third of a mile from Hillman station.

A BEAUTIFUL TERROR. Forest Fires on the Blue Ridge

Mountains.

Area of Fifty Square Miles in a Blaze-Fight of the Farmers For Their Property.

RALEIGH, N. C., May [B.-[Special.]-A special received from Globe Valley, Caldwell county, tells of a terrible fire of great extent which is raging in the Blue Ridge mountains.

It is holding carniva on the splendidly timbered mountain sides. The great dryness, aided by the brisk breezes much of the time, gives the flames every advantage. The fire originated eight miles west of Globe Valley. Though the air at that time was very quiet, the flames swung rapidly around to the north and southward, and within twenty-four hours, the entire western quarter of the horizon was shadowed by dense columns of smoke, which, filling in upon the immense valley, hid the sun, and at times the scene rivaled, in weird gloominess, the memorable days of last autumn, when unexpected darkness prevailed in that section. Fortunately, the damage has been confined to the timbered lands.

By hard fighting, day and night, the people have been able so far to hold off the danger from their fences and their homes. During the last few days the winds have born the banners of flames steadily inward, each suc ceeding night has seen the fire gain the crest of a nearer ridge and display scenes of singular beauty. As the fire spreads through the dark forests that skirt the sides of the grand Cather mountain, one of the loftiest east of the Rock-ies, the streams of fire can be seen to fall like cataracts of light down the sides of the cave and gorge, and then like an attacking army, to climb the opposite side and plant their flaming climb the opposite side and plant their naming standards on the crest of the ridge. Swinging up and down over the ridges and across the valleys, these long burning lines give the mountain slopes the appearance of being fes-tooned with flowers of fire. The burnt district embraces about fifty or sixty square miles of fine timber.

Captain Quick Tells the Story of the Collision With the Benison.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 8.—Captain Quick of the steamer Eureka, which was in a collision with the steamer Benison, on Sunday, and, who, with his crew of thirty-eight men, were supposed to have been drowned, arrived here this morning with the entire crew all safe and uninjured.

The Eureka's crew were brought here by the steamer Dessong, having been transferred

The Eureka's crew were brought here by the steamer Dessong, having been transferred to that vessel from the brig Caroline Gray, who picked up the shipwrecked crew at 6 o'clock Sunday evening, after they had been in their boats for about five hours.

Captain Quick reports that at 12:30 p. m., May 6th, while in a dense fog he heard a steamship's whistle close aboard on the starboard bow and answered by blowing two whistles and got two whistles in response. The Eureka's wheel was put to starboard, but before the ship could be swung off we saw a steamer head on our starboard side close aboard and immediately forward.

The ships collided, and the Benison, which subsequently proved to be striking the Eureka amidships, had barely sufficient time to lower three boats, one of which was damaged by the collision, before the Eureka sunk. We lay by the sunken steamer for half an hour, when, the fog clearing, we saw a steamer west about seven miles, and shortly after another steamer laying by her immediately pulled for the vessels, but after pulling two hours, and when within two miles of the ship, saw the disabled steamer disappear in tow of another steamer, which he recognized as the saw the disabled steamer disappear in tow of another steamer, which he recognized as the steamer Hudson. Had signals hoisted on the hoats, but couldn't attract the attention of the disappearing vessels, though could distinctly see their decks and movements thereon. Johnson vs. Oakes. Ejectment, from White. Jury. Verdict. Mistake. Practice. Before Judge Wellbern.

Bleckley, C. J.—Where a jury had been charged and had retired, at the dinner hour of the court, with instructions if they agreed on a verdict before the court met for its afternoon session to hand it to the clerk, and they did agree but their foreman took the verdict and put it in his pocket, and when the court met in the afternoon, the jury being in their box, the verdict was read and was a verdict for the defendant; and, before the verdict was fully recorded, counsel for plaintiff suggested that there was a mistake and that the jury mean to find for the plaintiff, and, upon inquiry being made of them, all, with one exception, answered that they had intended to find for plaintiff; it was not error to send the jury back to their room to agree upon a verdict, there their room to agree upon a verdict, there being no suggestion that they had been tampered with and they not having been discharged from the consideration of the case, though it might have been better to declare a material.

Patton vs. State. Selling liquor without license. From Habersham. Crimimal law. Indictment. Limitations. Liquors. Evidence. Before Judge Wellborn.
Bleckley, C. J.—I. If the special local option law of December 24th, 1884 (Acts 1884-5, p. 529), for Habersham county, went into effect on the 5th of August, 1885, it was not too late to prosecute at March term, 1887, of the superior court of such county, for a misclemeanor committed whilst the general law of the state touching the sale of spirituous liquors was in force in that county. Code, secs. 4634, 4565.

(a). The indictment being found at the March term, 1887, though it alleged the commission of the various offenses charged on February 1st, 1887, it was allowable for the state to prove their commission at any time within two years preceding the finding of the indictment.

2. The indictment was good if it were adapted to the general law, as it obviously was in this case, but the state would have to prove that the alleged acts or some of them alleged in the various counts, were done whilst the general law was of force in Hale mam county, and within two years preceding the finding of the indictment.

3. But the evidence not only showed that the sale in question was made after the general law ceased to be operative, but it failed to show that the sale took place before the indictment was found; the indictment being found at the spring term of Habersham superior court, which, by law, begins on the first Monday in March and may continue two weeks, while the evidence simply showed that the sale was made in the spring of 1887.

both were properly sustained. As to one of the defendants, a corporation, the declaration shows that it did not lease the land to plaintiffs, for work on which plaintiffs seek to set up a special laborer's lien, and also that it stopped plaintiffs, as trespassers, from working on the land. As to the other defendant, the declaration shows that he had no interest in the land, but was a mere agent for others. It does not allege that his promise to procure a lease from plaintiffs from the owners of ithe property was more than a mere voluntary promise; nor is any fraud alleged to have been confinited by him by which planntiffs were induced to go upon the land do the work in question.

A Novel Suggestion. A correspondent of the Cincinnati Com-nercial Gazette asks that paper if it would not be a good idea for the senate to lay the president's appointment of Mr. Fuller as shief justice on the table until after the next president is inaugurated, saying "that the democrats would be given a chance to howl, and at the same time be taught a les-on for the way they have treated Dakota.' The Commercial Gazette smacks its lips at the suggestion, and indorses it in terms peculiarly characteristic of that bellowing mouthpiece of the bloody shirt party; but it loes not take to the proposition for the reaion suggested by its correspondent. It thinks that Mr. Fuller's appointment should be hung up on other grounds, chief among which is, as usual, the bloody shirt argument, and next because by holding the action over for a year there is a possibility of a republican president being the appoint ing power, and that the nomination could thereby be displaced.

The desperation of this bloody shirt organ is more than amusing; it is ludicrous. it surely does not believe for an instant that even a republican senate could be in-Auced to adopt such a flagrant course of neglect. Mr. Fuller will be confirmed and he will probably receive the unanimous rote of the senate, but it is a pity that the harmony of the indorsement of the whole country of the president's action is marred by the bad grace with which the Commersial Gazette and a few papers like it accept the situation. Mr. Fuller's appointment is Indorsed on all sides and by all parties, and the instances are few where such a popular appointment has been made by any presi-

However, a drowning man clings to a straw, and it is no wonder that the Commercial Gazette bases some hopes on the next presidential election; but if it expects republican president to name the next hief justice of the United States it will be he worst fooled paper in America. Mr. Cleveland has just begun the glorious work for which he was elected, and our esteemed republican contemporary will have the leasure of seeing him complete it in the pext four years. After that the country will call some other man with a backbone. and if by that time the last vestige of republicanism is not eradicated the democrac will continue in the good work.

PERHAPS when the Irish bishops make their voices heard the pope's decree will be modified to suit the situation.

MR. BAYARD's Morocco troubles are not ret over.

The Pope's Temporal Power.

Pope Leo XIII has put a severe test to the extent of his temporal power in the deree lately issued on the state of affairs in Ireland, which decree clearly espouses the tause of the tory government of England against the fight which Ireland is making for home rule. The pope declares against the "plan of campaign" and the boycott, the weapons which the Irish have been using to bring about acquiescence to their demands.

This papal interference comes at a bad time for those who are making the fight for Irish liberty, and whose success has been such as to almost assuredly have brought about concessions from the government in the near future. It is no wonder therefore that the decree was received with consternation by the people of Ireland, where the Catholic church is strongest. There can be no doubt but that the pope's action will go very far towards interfering with the things against which the decree is directed. This in itself will be a very serious blow to the prospect for home rule, but not near so much as the belief, induced by the pope's stand, that he himself is against home rule. The pope's action puts the Irish people in a very embarrassing position, for they must yield their progressive fight for home rule, or in not doing so, must disregard the pope's rescript. The latter course is openly urged by many of the Catholic clergy in Ireland. Cardinal Moran, of Dublin, one of the most conspicuous leaders in the church, for the cause of home rule, advises Irishmen to disregard the rescript, if it condemns the national cause, and to keep up the agitation in spite of "all" opposition. Mr. Parnell, being a Protestant, advises likewise, and both Catholic and Protestant leaders unite In the plea for a continuance of the "plan of campaign" as adopted by the Irish national league, and for the boycott as the best means to gain the end for which Ireland is fighting.

It would be interesting to know the reasons which induced the pope to take this step. It is believed that English diplomacy is at the bottom of it; and it has been announced that the tories have been using the pope as a tool. Certain it is, the interference is an untimely and an odd one, and it is not strange that it has again brought up the question of the temporal power of the

The New York Freeman's Journal and Catholic Register, probably the leading Catholic journal of this country, in its last edition, expresses regret that the pope's decree should reach the public before it is read by those to whom it is addressed; and, continuing, says: Many of us would rather have suffered a most rievous physical wound—almost death itself—than have had the hely father's rumored pronouncement come just at this time. We do not fear that the cause of Ireland will suffer, but that warm hearts, overflowing with love for the sovereign pontiff, may be frozen against him.

If Monsignor Persico has failed to observe that

"treason in every other country is reason in Ire-land," and if this lack of observation has influ-enced the letter of the sacred congregation, the Irish bishops will know how to supply this seeming break in the synthesis between religion and pa-

The same paper further advises that Catholics drop the matter until the letter has been interpreted by the Irish bishops, to whom it was written, and until the true position of the pope is understood. It thinks that the question has been very much exaggerated, and that everything possible has deen done to irritate the impatience with which the rumor of the pope's action, has been received.

In the absence of American war vessel (and likewise in the absence of an American foreign policy) the sultan of Morocco appears to be a very big man.

The Convention's Work Today. A slate has been agreed on by Senator Colquitt and his friends, which is announced elsewhere, and which will probably be carried through this morning, although a good deal of opposition was developed last night. It will be seen that this slate shuts out Mr. Patrick Walsh, who was a candidate for the place of delegate-at-large, and who was indorsed by his county for that position. It also removes him from the national executive committee, a place that he has filled with distinguished ability, devotion and earnestness for many years.

Our views on the ostracism which thus shuts Mr. Walsh out have been already expressed, and need not be repeated. Unless the opposition, which was gaining ground last night, is strong enough this morning to break this slate the work of the convention is practically done, and there is nothing now for democrats to do-those who have been proscribed, as well as the others-but to join hands for the national campaign and go to work together to make Cleveland's election sure and triumphant.

EVEN Philadelphia has a Century club. This sort of thing is growing monotonous.

The Vital Issue. The New York Mail and Express, com menting on the position of THE CONSTITU-TION in regard to the necessity of democratic success in the approaching campaign, refers to the fact that Mr. James Russell Lowell, in his speech delivered just before he sailed for Eninformed his audience that if Mr. Cleveland's views of tariff reduction were not carried out "New England's leading industries will be drawn to the south, because of the greater cheapness of labor

We will say to the Mail and Express, in all candor, that this is why THE CONSTITU-TION has opposed every attempt to revise the tariff for political effect. Our position in this matter has been dictated solely by desire to see the extraordinary resources of the south built up to their utmost limit. Everything that we have written in favor of protection to American industries has been intended as an argument in favor of the industrial development of the south, a development which, if carried out, would materially benefit every man, woman and child in this section.

We have never regarded the question of southern development as a political question, and, as the complete development of southern industries depends on protection, we have never discussed that question from a political point of view. It is purely a question of business policy, and its injection into the party politics of the country is merely a trick of the hack politicians who are trying to make capital out of it.

But the success of the democratic party is a political question and a very serious one, so far as the south is concerned. We can afford to see a halt called in the expansion and development of our industries, but we cannot afford to see the south even threatened with the results that would follow republican success in the next election.

The Mail and Express is evidently of the opinion that the republican party is a very fine affair, and there is no doubt that the organization commends itself to a great many clever people at the north; but if our esteemed contemporary could have had a taste of the republican party as it existed in the south a few years ago, we have no doubt (taking into consideration the deep and sincere religious tone which Colonel Shepard has succeeded in imparting to this lively publication) that it would agree with THE CONSTITUTION that democratic success is a bigger thing for the south than anything else. For there can be no doubt that republican domination in the country means negro domination in the south. The republican leaders have declared it, the republican organs have indorsed it, and the republican voters of the north are anxious to put it in operation. This is the situation. Free rade, or anything approaching it, would paralyze southern industries; on the other hand, a republican domination in the south would paralyze everything: Of two dangers it is best to choose the least, and between free trade, which is dangerous, and republican success, which is deadly, we are willing to choose free trade; for it is an experiment that can be only temporary, whereas, republican and negro domination in the south would cause irreparable injury to every interest.

In this THE CONSTITUTION is not surrendering its opinions. It is merely conforming its position to what seems to be the opinion of an overwhelming majority of the democratic voters of the state. Its position on the tariff will be vindicated in due time, as all its other positions have been vindicated, and the vindication will be the surer because it has never worked for anything but the best interests of Georgia and of the Good judges of tournaments say that today's tilting at Piedmhnt park will be the finest ever seen in this country. Both men and horses are of the very best quality, and under the very best training. The rivalry is keen, and the competition eager. The teams that meet here today have met before, and each has old scores to settle and victories to confirm, or old defeats to avenge. The public will see beautiful riding and chivalrous bearing and skill at the park today. Which Will Be Sprung on the State Convention Today.

It Will Doubtless Go Through All Right District Delegates -Gossip About the Convention-Other Points.

Senator Colquitt and a few other gentleme met vesterday afternoon to consult over the situation, and by dark decided on the following ticket for delegates at large: G. DUBIGNON, of Chatham

A. H. COX, of Fulton. POPE BARROW, of Clarke, There was a contest between Mr. du Bignon and Mr. J. H. Estill. Mr. duBignon had been indorsed by the Chatham democracy, but Mr. Estill was disposed to make the race in spite of this. The first compromise proposed was to make Mr. Estill president of the convention, but this failed, as he was not a dele gate to the convention. It was then decided to give him the place on the national execu tive committee now held by the Hon. Patrick

WASHINGTON DESSAU, of Bibb,

Walsh. It was decided to make Mr. Hoke Smith permanent chairman. A movement was on foot last night to make Mr. John T. Graves, of the Rome Tribune, temporary chairman, which gained strength every hour, and it is probable that he will be elected tomorrow morning This is the slate that has been prepared for the general work of the convention. Considerable opposition to the ticket was developed in the Kimball house rotunda last night and many criticisms were indulged in but it is thought that it will stand as it is, though there may be a change. Each district is empowered to select its delegates.

THE DISTRICTS will caucus this morning to decide whom they will endorse as delegates to represent the different districts. In most of the districts this has been pretty effectually decided already, the only thing wanting being the official action of the delegates themselves. In the first district, Hon. John C. Dell, of Screven; Hon. Joel Sweat, of Ware, and Hon. Tom Lamb, of Glynn, are named as candi

In the second it is: Hon. Henry Sheffield, of Arlington; Hon. Richard Hobbs, of Albany; Hon. John Triplett, of Thomasville; Hon Maston O'Neill, of Decatur: Hon. W. D. Kidloo, of Cuthbert; Dr. N. C. Kendrick, of

In the third, Colonel W. L. Glessner, of the Americus Recorder, is a strong candidate; also Judge John McKae.

The fourth district: The delegates will be

Major W. J. Weeks, of Talbotton, and ex-Senator Lee Mandeville, of Carroll; and the alterates, F. D. Peabody, of Columbus, and W H. Daniel, of Heard. In the fifth there will be no opposition to Colonel Jack J. Spalding. Colonel Emmett Womack, of Rockdale, will doubtless be the other delegate. The two delegotes from the sixth will doubtless be Hon. F. H. Richardson, of Macon, and Colonel Bob Berner, of Forsyth mentioned. The oandidates in the seventh will be Colonel D. B. Hamilton, of Rome; Mr. John r. Graves, of Rome; Major J. M. McBride, of Tallapoosa; Judge Graham, of Cortersville and Major C. A. Dunwoody, of Roswoll.

Mr. Robert Whitfield, of Baldwin, is also

There are three candidates in the eighth-"Tiny" Rucker, of Athens, Colonel Lewis, of Hancock, and Hon. W. H. Howard, of Oglethorpe.

The ninth has four candidates—Major Butt, of Hall: Hon, W. G. Candler, of Union: Hon, W. E. Simmons, of Gwinnett, and Colonel Wm. Perkison, of Cherokee. In the tenth, Judge H. D. D. Twiggs and Hon. Beverly Evans are mentioned.

THE DISTRICT CAUCUSES. The delegations from all the congressional districts will meet this morning for conference and to decide upon the delegates to the national convention from the respective districts. The different districts will caucus at the hour nd place, as follows: First District—Will meet at Kimball SECOND DISTRICT—Will meet at Kimbal.

SECOND DISTRICT—At 9 o'clock in the sen-THIRD DISTRICT—At 10 o'clock in senate

FOURTH DISTRICT-At 10 o'clock in the resident's room of the senate.
FIFTH DISTRICT—Will meet at 9:30 o'clock

Ninth District—At 10 o'clock in the state

TENTH DISTICT—At 9 o'clock in the Kimball house areade, from which place it will adjourn to quarters to be agreed upon.

THE CALL The call of the state executive committee der which the convention meets is as fol-under which the convention meets is as follows:

The national democratic committee having met in the city of Washington on the 22d of February. 1888, and having appointed Tuesday, the 5th day of St. Louis as the place of holding the national democratic convention. And having declared, in accordance with the established usage of the party that each state is entitled to representation therein by delegates equal to double the number of its senators and representatives in the congress of the United States, and that each tertitory and the District of Columbia have two delegates, and a regular call having been issued to that effect, the democratic executive committee of Georgia being duly assembled in Atlanta on this, the 21st of March, 1888, do issue this call to the democrats of the state for a convention of delegates assemble in the house of representatives, in Atlanta, on the 9th of May, 1888, it being the second Wednesday of said month, then and there to appoint delegates and alternates to the convention to be held in its. Louis and to transact any other business that may be deemed appropriate under the business that may be deemed appropriate under the above mentioned call of the national democratic

Another call is now also issued for the state of Georgia for a convention of delegates to assemble in the house of representatives in Atlanta on the 8th day of August, 1888, it being the second Wednesdat of said month of August, then and there to appoint electors and their alternates for the presidentiay ticket, and to nominate a candidate for governor and for atterney-general and the other officers usually called the statehouse officers, to appoint a new executive committee, and to transact any other business that may be deemed appropriate.

The committee adopted the following recommendations, which we are instructed to make known in connection with the above:
Resolved, That the state democratic executive committee recommend that the democracy of deorgis, in each county, select their delegates, in such mode as the executive committee of each county may adopt; for the first convention, on the first Tuesday in May, and for the second convention on the first Tuesday in July.

Resolved, That each county in this state be entitled to double the number of votes that the county has representatives in the lower house of the general assembly.

Resolved, That each county be requested to select don't-touch-me-for-I'm-loaded look in their cyes.

"The convention," said one of the old-time leaders, "will, of course, indorse the president in the strongest terms, and will also indorse his tariff message. There will probably be a plank declaring unequivocally in favor of tariff reform. The silver question will bet, I understand, be touched upon. A number of the older heads have been busy advising against anything that would look like reading out of the party those who do not agree with the president upon the tariff question. I expect Judge Bigham will preach harmony in his opening remarks. The judge is a strong admirer of President Uleveland, but he believes that the success of the democratic is a strong admirer of President Cleveland, but he believes that the success of the democratic party at the coming election essential to the best interests of the south. Atlanta 14, Columbus 6-The Boys Play Excellent Ball -Old Time Scenes-The Same Clubs Today.

The Atlanta boys got there "with both feet" yesterday.

The local baseball season was formally opened at Athletic park, and although the de-ree of cierk of the weather for rain caused a temporary suspension of play, the opening was an auspicious one.

For Atlanta won.

The Atlanta boys began the season under a disadvantage. Without anything like the necessary practice, they were compelled to play against strong clubs, and before adverse andiences in Augusta and Savannah. In the former city they lost one game through poor umpiring; in the latter they were compelled to play upon grounds that were in a terrible condition, and this fact contributed largely to their three defeats.

In the first championship game on the home grounds, played yesterday, they were pitted against the Columbus club, which is probably the strongest club in the league. The home club outplayed them at every point. The two weak places, second and third, have been strengthened by the acquisition of "Billy" Green and "Billy" Sands, who covered second and third bases respectively. Both of these players were with the Gradys last year, and both are excellent players.

THE GAME YESTERDAY

was well played on both sides.

Just after "play bell" had been called by the umaloric, Mr. Jim Lyuch, a heavy shower served to interrupt the proceedings. Bain fell for only five minutes, but the grounds were drenched. In tenminutes more the grounds had dried sufficiently to warrant the game proceeding, although some parts of the grounds, left field in particular, were 1 bad condition.

At three o'clock, the members of both places.

condition.

At three o'clock, the members of both nines appeared on the field. Not one of the Atlanta boys passed under the ladder as they came from the club house, and this lucky omen prompted "Reddy" tag declare that "the game is ours." All the boys felt happy after that and they went into win.

Mr. Jim Lynch succeeded in rising above his natural timidity and consented to act as umpire. It was a good selection, his decisions pleasing both sides.

It was a good selection, his decisions pleasing born sides.

Atlanta presented Turner and Key as her battery, while Marshall and Gibson occupied the same positions for Columbus. Turner proved himself a thory oughly capable pitcher. He is a young fellow, but he has an old head on his shoulders and he showed this several times when the bases were crowded yest terday. He has thorough command of the ball, night regulation curves and shoots, and plenty of speed. Key, of course, caught well. In the fifth inning Green went behind the bat, and although had never before caught Turner he did very well indeed.

Of the other Atlanta boys, almost every one deserves especial mention. Lilly's first base play was of the other Atlanta boys, almost every one deserves especial mention. Lilly's first base play was perfect. Green and Sands covered second and third in fine style, and "Reddy" Matthews proved a stat in the middle field. In the second multip, Craig was disabled by slidling to third, and Glenn took his place. Glenn made a beautiful catch of Gibson's line fly in the "fifth, catching it on a dead run. Lawshe was credited with several errors at short, but most of these were on difficult balls. Whiteker had nothing to do in the field.

For the visitors, Gibson played beautifully, berhind the bat, in the box and at short. He covered these three positions in the course of the game, "Wick" Miller, the famous shortstop of the old Columbus club, accepted the same position with the present club, and is a tower of strength. All of the Columbus men have played professional ball before this season, and they are all good ones. Rentroe a first, Bambush at second, Moschell and Willett all play d good ball.

On motion of Mr. Walter B. Hill a committee of nine, on business, was appointed to report at the noon session.

The committee on business were: W. J. Northen, B. M. Calloway, W. B. Hill, J. J. Keith, W. A. Hansell, G. C. Thomas, J. B. Hawthorne, W. L. Peek, L. N. Trammell, J. G. Thrower, J. T. Waterman.

Mr. W. B. Hill offered this resolution:

Whereas, At least two-thirds of the democrats in Georgia and in the other southern states are prohibitionists; and, whereas, their conscientious convictions should be respected by the northern wing of the party;

Resolved I. That the president appoint a committee of five, whose duty shall be to present a memorial to the next democratic national convention in the name of the Georgia state Temperance association, urging the conventiou to omit from the party platform its plank opposing sumptuary linealing thereby prohibition) laws.

2. That the committee shall further urge the adoption of a platform containing the true democratic doctrine that the sovereigaty of the people entitles them to determine by bellot the continuance or suppression of the saloon system, pledging the party to submit this question to the vote of the people, as municipalities, counties, states or nation, as the people may desire.

3. That we request the delegation appointed by the Georgia state democratic convention to cooperate with such committee and endeavor to secure action in accordance with these resolutions.

am a prohibitionist, county, state and national. I indorse the Women's Christian Temperance union. I used to sell the stuff, but thank God I had strength enough to quit it. I have no interest in the vile stuff now. I am not ashamed to come out for prohibition."

Colonel E. T. Benson, of Clarke county, said: "Clarke county is all right on the prohibition question. She is dry yet, and dry she will stay. The antis tried twice to get liquor back, but they have failed. They can't get the respectable people over there to vote with them, and the respectable people propose, too control the affairs of my county."

Mr. Alvin Freeman, of Cowets county, made a few remarks. "Six years ago we had a prohibition council in Newman, and we made the city dry. The opponents of prohibition predicted that the town would dry up with the dry rot. That's the same old song. A year later a special enactment of the legislature drove liquor from the county of Cowets. Did we dry out? Not a bit of it. Since then $50,000 worth of brick buildings have been put up. Another bank was opened in Newnan—a cotton factory and guano works followed. We spent $20,000 in building and repairing churches. The county has not blown away as our friends, the antis, said it would and it will not blow away. The people are happy and prosperous—and the saloons will never be voted back, because antis, said it would and it will not blow away. The people are happy and prosperous—and the saloons will never be voted back, because we have prohibition by special law."

Mr. D. T. Doughty, of Dodge, remarked, "The antis have tackled us twice and we have wiped them up both times. We will wipe them up again if we get a vote at a state prohibition law, but I want to tell you one thing. Nothing can be done without organization."

hibition law, but I want to tell you one thing. Nothing can be done without organization."

Mr. D. T. Cheney, of Floyd, said: "Something over two years ago the antis carried our county by about 700 votes, but they did it by disreputable means. We got a first class registration law and at the last election we defeated the liquor men by a majority of 600 votes. It has been in force three weeks and in that time only three drunken men have been arrested in Rome. The banks and merchants say that business has greatly improved under prohibition. The people are saving more money than ever before, and $400,000 is being expended in erecting new buildings. Prohibition is a blessing to Rome, notwithstanding the fact that thirteen harrooms have been started at Plainrooms have been started at Plain-ville beyond the limits of Floyd county, for the purpose of flooding our county with liquor.

Local option is rotten and it will take a state law to give us a firm footing in the state. Three fourths of the state has local option—but the other fourth breaks the influence of local option by the concentration of the liquor interests.

Judge William R. Hammond, of Fulton, made a little talk. "I regret that I did not have the privilege of being here this morning. I am familiar with the working of prohibition in Evilton country." lam familiar with the working of prohibition in Fulton county. A little over two years ago Fulton county carried local option. I am sorry to say that we were defeated at the last election. But prohibition made a grand record in Fulton while it lasted. No fair, unbiased man can say that it did not do great good. One strong proof of this is the contrast between the condition of things here just after the local option law went into effect, and the condition of things just after the barrooms were voted back. Just think for a moment of the difference. The facts are all on record in the public prints. I went to Clayton county six months after it had been made dry by special enactment. I went as judge of this circuit. The sheriff met me at the depot and said, there is not a criminal case on the docket, and there are no prisoners in the jail.' That was a change indeed. And yet Jonesboro is within twenty miles of At-in the jail.' That was a change indeed. And yet Jonesboro is within twenty miles of Atlanta, and at that time 150 barrooms were in full blast in this city. If this much good has been done by local option, how much more good could be accomplished with a general state law, with no barrooms at all in Georgia?"

Secretary John Waterman, of the committee, read resolutions, the passage of which the committee had recommended.

when Georgia will be free from the curse of which the "We are proud of Atlanta—the equal of any rity in the country, the Mecca of the south and of these United States."

President Pringle had hoped that Mrs. W. C. Sibley, af Angusta, would deliver the response of the Women's Christian Temperance and the Miss Stokes, who responded for the W. C. T. U. Miss Stokes spoke well. She referred to the fact that the bill of 1885 was introduced by request of the W. C. T. U., and reviewed the part which the union had played in affluencing temperance legislation in Georgia.

President Pringle then addressed the convention. He reviewed prohibition legislation. Spoke of the importance of the harmonious working of the various temperance organizations in the state. It would take the combined work of these agencies and the passage of a law to remove temptation from men who desired to reform but were too weak to do so.

He made a long argument in favor of a state prohibition law, at various stages of which the applause was generous. He thought that if the legislature should pass a law, it would be ratified, for said he, "the state is overwhelmingly for prohibition as three-fourths of the counties lavor it." He made the point that the jug trade of wet counties bordering on dry counties was a great injustice to the good people who had carried those counties dry. Dr. Hawthorne said: "We had hoped that

Dr. Hawthorne said: "We had hoped that the resolutions would be harmoniously considered. They are not intended to hurt any body—not even the third party. I would be the last man in Georgia to say anything unkind about Sam Small, my distinguished and devoted friend. He deserves the heartfelt sympathy and support of every true man, for the noble' struggle which he has made in bringing himself out of the depths. Sam Small deserves to be crowned, and crowned with the diadem of Christ who redeemed him.
"We do not propose to commit ourselves to the third party movement. We simply propose to let it alone. We would lose much by organizing into a separate party. It is best to pose to let it alone. We would lose much by organizing into a separate party. It is best to keep this great moral issue before the people in order that men of all parties may see the evil and come to our support. Two thirds of the voting population of Georgia favor prohibition and I thank God that every virtuous woman on Georgia soil is a prohibitionist! [Dr. Hawthorne arcse to a question of rivilege later in the session son is a promotionist: [Dr. Hawtherne arcset to a question of privilege later in the session and modified the above remark by saying: "I meant this—All virtue-loving women are opposed to the whisky curse."]

Mr. W. J. Northen, speaking to the resolutions, said: "Local option has served Georgia grandly, and I think that we had better let local option alone."

local option alone."

Mr. Godfrey, of Stewart, asked: "Is it the intention to ask the legislature for a state prohibition law? It so I cannot vote."

Dr. Hawthorne: "The resolutions commit us to the principle that the legislature has the right to enget a state law." right to enact a state law."

Mr. Walker, of Walton: "I regret to be compelled to oppose the resolution. Local option, I think, is the best thing for the prohibitionists. If they attempt to pass a state law they will commit the biggest blunder ever committed by sensible

Judge Hammond said: "There seems to be Judge Hammond said: "There seems to be a misapprehension in the minds of the opponents of the resolutions. Their object is unquestionably a state prohibition law by legislation. I am the author of the resolutions, and to make their object perfectly patent I move to amend by inserting after the last line in the last resolution the words by a state prohibitory law. It will then read:

All present a solid front for the accomplishment of this object by a state prohibitory law.

Secretary Waterman then read the following resolutions, which were adopted:

Resolved. That a committee of three be appointed to draft such legislation as may be necessary to carry out the local option laws and report the same to the executive committee of the state temperance association previous to the meeting of the next legislation. esation previous to the meeting of the next legislature.

Resolved, That a registration law be drafted as suggested by Judge J. T. Pendleton.

Resolved, That this convention request the legislature to enact a law compelling the introducing and teaching of the effects of alcohol on the human body in all our public schools.

Resolved, That our representatives in congress be requested to support the bill which provides for the appointment of a commission of inquiry upon the alcoholic liquor traffic.

A resolution by Mr. E. W. Dodge, of Richmond, tendering the sincere thanks of the convention to the Woman's Christian Temperance union for valuable aid to the cause of prohibition, was adopted by a rising vote.

Doctor Hawthorne introduced Mr. Richard

T. Dow to the convention as the agent of the Atlanta Commonwealth, the new prohibition paper. He culogized Mr. Dow and expressed the hope that the prohibitionists of the state would rally to the support of the paper which, he said, would start with a capital of $10,000, behind which were some of the best business brains and manhood of Atlanta. All the delegates were asked to subscribe to the paper and support it in every possible manner.

Mr. Dow introduced this resolution:

Resolved, That we proclaim that the prohibition movement is in no way inimical to foreign born citizens, and that such citizens are cordially invited to come into our state now being rapidly redeemed from the curse of rum.

from the curse of rum.

"The antis," said Mr. Dow, "are working to make people of foreign birth believe that prohibitionists are their enemies. My own person gives the lie to that. I am foreign born and a Catholic. The antis tell foreigners that the prohibitionists are the know-nothing party. That's what the antis are. We want all foreigners to know that the prohibitionists are not narrow-minded—that they open their hearts and their konnes to all honest men who come to Georgia to live as honest citizens."

The resolution was adolted.

ANOTHER IMPORTANT RESOLUTION

by Mr. Freeman. of Cowota.

Resolved, That the next general assembly be requested to so amend the general local option law that after the salcons shall have been voted out of a county under said law, no election shall be held for five years.

Mr. J. L. D. Hillyer, of Clayton, moved to amend by striking out the words "five years. He said: "If the liquor traffic is wrong a compromise should be made with it. should be stopped forever. It should be ecluded for all time. No chance should be cluded for all time. given the liquor men to impose the sale of given the figuor men to impose the sale of liquor upon us again."

Mr. Freeman, of Coweta, accepted the amendment. He stated that liquor could not be voted back into Coweta or Clayton counties, as both are dry by special enactments.

A resolution thanking Professor Scomp, of Oxford, for his book, "King Alcohol in the Realm of King Cotton," was adopted.

The call of counties was now resumed.

I have to overthrow this black denomination. I have no rosy hopes at present, but some day we trust that Morgan will range on the dry side."

Mr. George Woods, of Pulaski: "We have a good registration law in Pulaski. We have whipped the wets in two elections and will continue to whip them. The virtue, intelligence and wealth control down our way."

Mr. E. W. Dodge, of Richmond, said that almost everything in Richmond seems to be against temperance. The mayor and council fight it. The small band of prohibitionists down there are working and will never give number as yet we can't come it. We want you up—but as yet we can't come it. We want you all to help us to whip the fight."

and we are satisfied that the time is coming when we will run it out entirely."

Mr. B. N. Callaway, of Wilkes: "We hope to have prohibition soon. The most respectable people in our county are for it, and if we can't get it by our votes we are going to ask the legislature to give it to us in spite of us, by a special enactment."

A resolution by Mr. George Thomas, of Athens, thanking the people of Atlanta for their generous hospitality to the delegates, was carried.

President Pringle returned thanks for his President Pringle returned thanks for his re-election. He said that he really thought that somebody else should have been chosen for the honorable position—but as he had heen re-elected he did not know how to decline.

Messrs. James A. Gray, R. T. Dow and James G. Thrower were appointed a committee to arrange with Commissioner Slaughter for return rates for the delegates.

The convention then adjourned sine die.

What Judge Hammond Says. Referring to the resolution on the subject of ie state law, Judge Hammond said: "I think the convention has acted wisely. If the people of Georgia favor prohibition, there ought to be a state prohibitory law. If they do not favor it, no such law can be passed. We shall make a fight for it, and if we succeed it will be because the people are with us. If we do not succeed, we will be no worse off than we are now, as we will still have local option to fall back on." "Does the resolution contemplate a state election." "It does not. I should be opposed to that. The resolution contemplates the passage of a state prohibitory law by the house and senat of the Georgia legislature, made law by the governor's signature. This policy will of course bring it before the people, for the fight will be made on candidates for the legislature. "Will the fight be made in every county?" "I cannot say; but the convention was very generally in favor of a state prohibition law. I presume candidates pledged to that policy, and candidates pledged against that policy will be run in almost every county in the state. The matter will be thoroughly discussed, and the popular vote on the subject may be understood to represent public feeling."

"Was the Fulton delegation in favor of this resolution.?' "Yes, the Fulton delegation had a consultation last night. We knew that numberless resolutions would be proposed on the subject of a state law, and after considerable discussion we decided to support the resolution which was drawn in our delegation, and adopted by the convention, and which is the declaration of the convention as printed above." "The fight then for a state prohibitory law is opened?' "Yes. Proper committees will be appointed, and the prohibitionists will make a quiet but determined effort to carry the state by electing a majority of the house and senate, and thus secure the passage of a law which will prohibit the sale of liquor within the limits of the state of Georgia."

It is understood that Judge Hammond is the author of the resolution passed by the convention.

SAM SMALL TALKS. He Gives His Views Upon the Temperance

He Gives His Views Upon the Temperance Convention.

"What do you think of the work of the convention today?" Eev. Sam Small was asked last night.

"If my understanding is correct, and the convention declared in favor of a state prohibitory law, to become operative when approved by the governor, without submission to the people for ratification, then the convention has gone ahead of the terms upon which it was called together, and has adopted the first and most essential plank of the third party platform, as I drafted it. Upon that proposition, the national party men in Georgia will cordially co-operate with the Georgia Temperance association.

cordially co-operate with the Georgia Temperance association.

On other matters the convention dedged every issue presented, and has ended its session ingloriously, knuckling at the dread of the democratic party lash. The committee on business strangled Walter B. Hill's resolutions concerning the national democratic platform, smothered Professor Scomp's antifinternal revenue resolution, and kicked the anti-license resolutions under its table in ignominious contempt. All the acts were simply so many surrenders to the saloon element and power in the democratic party, and show that the convention was more democratic than prohibition.

"Now, what will be the attitude of the third party?"

"As to the attitude of the third party men,

"As to the attitude of the third party men, we propose to fight for state prohibition in the form agreed upon. We will fight any candidate for the legislature who is not committed to it. Here in Fulton county we propose to stand together and vote as one man.

"If the right men and solid uncompromising men are not duly nominated for the legislature on the prohibition issue, then we will make the nominations, vote solidly for and let consequences fall where they may. It is time to fight or flunk. We do not pronose to do the latter. If the non-partisan prohibitionists are for prohibition they now know how to command our co-operation.

"By the way," he said, suddenly, "did you see those two circulars of this new paper—the Commonwealth? That was rich. The first prospectus announced in big letters that the paper would oppose a third-party movement. They must have seen their mistake, for they bird all those circulars gathered up and some mor; printed. Those second ones left all that out."

"Will Mr. Sam Jones he, with you in the "Will Mr. Sam Jones be with you in the third party movement?"

"As a matter of conviction, yes. He believes, of course, that Cleveland will be elected, and that we won't be able to do much this year, but he has been preaching and believing in the third party idea for a long time." Senator Colquitt Silent.

A Constitution representative called on Senator Colquitt last night and asked him for his views on the action of the temperance convention. He said he did not care to be interviewed.

There were repeated in DeGive's opera house last night the brilliant scenes of last week, the Kirmess was given with the same cast of characters. It went off brilliantly, and the very larged orowd of spectators showed by frequent applause how the great performance was apprecisted. The various dances were given better than at any of the performances last week. The music was better. Everything glided along smoothly from the beginning to the close of the entertainment. To say that the Kirmess last night was even more successful than it was last week is to reflect the highest compliment that could be framed. Many out-of-town people were present. A novel feature in entertainments was introduced a few days ago by a lady in a neighboring city. It was called a "Rose party."

The house throughout was decorated with the 'queen of the flowers." Just as the guests entered the hall they beheld an immense horse shoe composed of these delicately tinted flowers. The rooms were all artistically dressed with them. Over the diningroom door was the word "Partake" in these bright colored flowers. The tables were decorated with them, and the sweet perfume that came to the guests was pleasant and refreshing. Four to the guests was pleasant and refreshing. Four little girls dressed separately as white, pink, tea and red roses served the iees. The costume of the histess was made to represent a white rose. The skirt of the dress was composed of panels, each fitting one into the other, and all gracefully draped. She wore an immense bouquet of the white reses on the corsage, and several small buds of the same in her hair. The entertainment, while novel, was ex-quisite in every detail, and reflected the true artist quisice in every deam, and renected the true artist in the fair hostess.

Will not some of our lady entertainers in Atlanta, where the roses are in such beauty and abundance, introduce this unique and strking mode or receptions?"

Canadian Catarrh Cure Co.:

Gentlamen—My wife was a great sufferer with Catarrh for over two years. She has been a little trous bled ever since she was a child with the disease About two years ago we were in Mississippi, and while there she was taken down with catarrhafever; we had three of the best physicians we could get. They broke the fever and left her the worse case of catarrh of the head I ever saw. Her nos ran profusely, and for a year I despaired of her ever getting well. I tried several doctors and they could not cure her, and used every catarrh remedy I could hear of. I spent over $50 the past year for remedies and all to no effect. At last it became so offensive that you could hardly remain where she was. offered $1,000 to any doctor who would cure her (and that would have left us homeless), but I would mot have cared for that if she could only be cured. We saw an advertisement in the Atlanta Constitution of "Canadian Catarrh Cure." and thought w would try it, and went to your office, when you gave my wife a small sample bottle of your remedy, and told its to come and get a large bottle when that was out. I bought the large bottle, and before she had used all of the bottle she was entirely well, and her health fully restored, and now does nore wor't than any woman I know. She used the medicin over six months ago, and there has not been the slightest return or the disease. I hope everybody that has catarrh may find you and be cured. I am a traveling man and have told a great mapy of your wonderful cure. Yours truly, slightly lower prices prevailing for wheat, corn and provisions. The weakness at the opening was followed by a slight raily which, however, did not last long, and before noon quite a brisk dee was started in wheat and corn. The wheat manact was a fickle one. Outside influences have been about evenly divided. A prominent speculator pounded the market, but scattering buying, a big falling off in receipts, and the fact that the government report is coming out Thursday, made a great many people hold on to their wheat and prevented any serious break in prices. July opened at $434c, sold up to $434c, broke to 34c, sold up again to $434c, back to 81%c, broke to sic, soid up again to eaper, back to 81%c.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

There was a decline of 1%c in the price of May corn today. The shorts seem to be pretty well covered, and some holders of long corn were realizing as best they could. There was also a decline, but less extensive in the more deferred futures, which was partly because of the weakness in May and partly because of the very heavy short selling by several local bears. All this was in the face of comparatively light receipts, which failed to strengthen the market. May opened at 57½c, sold up to 57½c and closed at 56½c. June and July opened at 55½c, sold up to 55½c, declined to 55½c and closed at 55%. All the activity in the speculative oat market was concentrated in early trading when it was strong, especially for May delivery, shorts bidding that month up about ½c. Later, when corn declined, there was an easier feeling in cats, and the market became dull. May sold up to 34% and closed at

NEW YORK STOCKS. Stocks as Reported at the New York Stock Exchange.

NEW YORK, May 8.—The stock market was again only moderately active and generally weak today. The influences at New York were mostly in favor of a lower range of values. The illness of the emperor, the recent Coleman failure and the small acceptances of bonds today had some effect in producing a bearish feeling. Richmond and West Point was weak for no apparent cause. The open-ing was decidedly weak at declines ranging up to 3/4 per cent, and further lesses were sustained in the first few minutes. Missouri Pacific, Manhattan and Richmond and West Point were especially weak, Richmond and West Point were especially weak, losing over a point each. New buying at low figures however, soon started prices upward, but this demand was soon satisfied and another drain soon sent prices to the lowest of the day before noon all animation disappeared from the list after that time, but a general imprevement followed on the removal of the bear pressure, and prices were once more brought up to the neighborhood of the open. ing figures. There was more activity in the last hour, however, and the market again yielded, closing heavy. The active list is lower. Burling-ton and Quincy lost 3½, Richmond and West Point 2% Manhattan 1½, Reading and Oregon Trans-continental 1½ each, Lake Shore and Missoul Pa-cife 1½ each, Canada Southern 1, and the rest fractions. The sales aggregated 274,000 shares.

Provisions were moderately active and values steady. Short ribs received the most attention. Foreigners are not taking hold so freely, as last week's shipments are large, but it is mainly lard proviously contracted for. Receipts are fair and indications are the thing. Exchange active and strong at 487@489. Money proviously contracted for. Receipts are fair and indications are that they will continue for some time, as high price has attracted shipments from outside points to this market. Shorts have covered freely, and impressions prevail that the whole trade is well evened up. July pork sold at $14.20@1.27% and closed at $1.37%. Lard sold at $8.22%@8.27% and closed at $1.67%. Short ribs sold at $7.62%@7.70 and closed at $1.67%. easy at 11/4@2. Subtreasury balances: Coin 3131,815,000; currency, 313,950,000. Governments quiet and steady to firm: 4s 1267/4; 41/4s 1071/4. BHIPMENTS.

The following is our comparative statement

The New Orleans Cotton Market.

NEW ORLEANS, May 8.—[Special.]—Liver-pool opened partially 1-54 lower, and our markets about five points down, the easier feeling being mainly due to the heavy receipts appearing at the ports. As the day advanced the market declined still further, as the totals for the day at all ports footed up over 9,000 bales. A great portion of this reached the seaboard at northern ports, and the majority, both there and here, is from shipments from the larger interior towns, which are disposing of their stocks in this way as they did last week, when in spite of the heavy movement to the ports, interior stocks were reduced 28,000 bales. Spots continue steady; sales 1,500 bales. Futures closed Steady; sales 22,600.

IT BEGINS TODAY.

Everything in Readiness for the Great Cavalry Festival.

Additional Details—The Rules in Full
—Other Tourney Gossip.

The cavalry festival will begin today. The indications point to such a success as will gratify Captain John Milledge, the projector of the enterprise, and insure its repeti-tion next year. The city is full of gallant cavtion next year. The city is full of gallant cavalrymen. They will ride their mettlesome steeds, and will show the people of Atlanta such riding as has nover been seen in this city. The test of skill will be a display of horsemanship worth seeing. So brilliant a contest has not taken place in Georgia since before the war, when tournaments were so popular. It is not extravagant to say that the tournament today will eclipse any which has taken place in Georgia during the past decade.

The details have already been given in THE CONSTITUTION, but the following additional particulars are interesting.

The knight who wins the first prize will have the honor of crowning the queen of love and beauty and deciding who she shall be. The coronation in DeGive's opera house will

The coronation in Decryte's opera nouse will be a brilliant spectacle.

Some of the most beautiful young ladies of Charleston and a dozen Augusta belles are here. Each one is willing to be crowned.

The tilting will begin promptly at 12 o'clock today. It will be ended by about 5 in the arrangements.

It is said that the Philadelphia company has the finest horses and some of the best riders. Many good judges predict that the gallant troop from the Quaker city will win the first

Many good judges peedlet that the gainshit troop from the Quaker city will win the first prize.

The Charleston boys are confident of victory. Bo are the Savannah boys and the Augusta boys. In fact, all of them expect to win.

LIST OF THE JUDGES.

General P. M. B. Young will be the chief judge, and he will be assisted by the following distinguished military officers: Colonel Riley, U. S. A., now serving at the Augusta arsenal; Lieutenant Charles Cabaniss, U. S. A., on duty at the citadel, Charleston; Lieutenant Lyman Hall, in charge Moreland Park cadets; Captain t Jacobson, U. S. A., stationed at Atlanta; Lieutenant Matthewson, U. S. A., in charge Milledgeville cadets; Lieutenant Hodgson, U. S. cavalry, in charge Dahlonega cadets; Colonel C. M. Wiley, of Macon, commander of the Georgia battalion; Colonel W. A. Wilkins, of Waynesboro, and Captain R. H. Baker, of Dahlonega.

FORMING THE LINE.

All the cavalrymen will assemble in Marietta street, near the state house, at 10 o'clock, A line will be formed at 10:30 o'clock, and, preceded by a brass band, the horsemen will go to the Piedmont bark.

Captain Milledge has turned the entire force of cavalrymen over to Captain Clark, of Augusta, who will be in command both today and temorrow.

of cavalrymen over to Captain Clark, of Angusta, who will be in command both today and tomorrow.

Last evening the judges and the tilters met and discussed the rules which are to govern the contest. General P. M. B. Young presided and explained the different rules. Finally all subscribed to the following RULES FOR TILT.

The tilt to begin promptly at 12 o'clock.

Distance between points, 39 yards. Time, 13 seconds from starting point to last post.

At the trumpet signal, the trooper on the right, with his sabre drawn and at the carry, moves forward at the walk, a few yards, and then takes the fallop. And when opposite the starting point the lime flag drops. When between the start and the first head he comes to guard. When within a few yards of the first post he takes the first postion of "right cut," and upon getting opposite the head he executes the "right cut against infantry." After making this cut, he resumes the position of "guard," and, when within a few yards of the first ring, he takes the first position of "quarte point," and, when within a few yards of the shore it in the point of the sabre by a downward motion of the point of the sabre by a downward motion of the prist. He then resumes the "guard" until within a few yards of the second head, when he takes the first position of "left cut against cavalry." and when near the second ring, takes the first position of "left cut against cavalry." and when near the second ring, takes the first position of "left cut against cavalry." and when near the second ring, takes the first position of the sabre by a downward motion of the point of the sabre by a downward motion of the point of the sabre by a downward motion of the point of the sabre by a downward motion of the point of the sabre by a downward motion of the point of the sabre by a downward motion of the point of the sabre by a downward motion of the point of the sabre by a downward motion of the point of the sabre by a downward motion of the point of the sabre by a downward motion of the point of the s between troopers to be determined by single runs until decided.

First—Leather head, six (6) inches in diameter, on post eighteen inches high, to be taken with "right cut" against infantry, to count (two).

Second—ling, three (3) inches in diameter, hanging six (6) feet from the ground, to be taken in "quarte point," to count (three).

Third—Seven (7) inch wood head, on post six (6) feet eight (8 inches high, supported by a northern plue peg three quarters (%) of an inch in diameter, three (3) inches exposed, to be taken with "left cut," to count (four).

three (3) inches exposed, to be taken with "left cut," be count (four).

Fourth—Ring, three (3) inches in diameter, hanging seven (7) feet from the ground, to be taken "tierce point." to count two.

Fith—Seven (7) inch wooden head, supported by a northern pine peg three-quarters of an inch in diameter, exposed three inches, on a post six (6) feet three (3) inches high, to be taken with "right cut," to count two.

Sixth—The exercise, consisting of the proper guards, cuts, points, and mouliners, (as prescribed by Upton) each of which is valued at one-half point, fourteen in all, to count seven.

by Upton) each of which is valued at one-half point, fourteen in all, to count seven.

Seventh—Horsemanship, to count four.
Aggregate—Total one run, 24 (best possible). Best possible 3 runs, 72. Minimum 0.

Rules.—1. No trooper shall shout at, or strike his lorse with his sabre.

2. No trooper shall go upon the judges' stand during the contest, unless invited to do so by the judges.

3. No trooper shall contend out of his turn, except with consent of his commanding officer, and until the fact has first been communicated to the judges.

If a horse bolts between the start and the first judges.

4. If a horse bolts between the start and the first post, the trooper can return to the starting point and commence to run anew. This will not, however, be allowed when the horse bolts after passing the first post.

5. If a trooper be thrown, except by his horse falling down, he shall receive zero for horsemanship on that round, and for all failures caused by his fall.

6. If a trooper drops his sabre, he shall receive zero for sabre exercises on that round, and for all failures caused by the loss of his sabre.

7. If a trooper goes through at a less gait than the full gallop of his norse, he shall receive zero for everything en that round.

8. If possible, there shall be nine judges, as follows: One chief judge, one time judge, one judge of horsemanship, one judge of sabre exercises, and one judge at each ring and head.

9. After each trooper has had one run the judges shall gather at the judges' stand and report to the chief judge the score for that run. And when each trooper has had his three runs the scores shall be consolidated and the result announced.

10. There shall be a clerk of the judges, who shall keep a record of the scores.

A PLEASANT OCCASION.

The Stationary Engineers and Their Lady Friends Have a Social Reunion. The first anniversary of the Atlanta division No. 1, of the National association of Stationary Engineers was celebrated last night at their room, near the corner of Broad and Peachtree Streets.

There was a very large attendance of the members of the order and their lady friends.

Mr. W. C. Langston presided with great ability.

He introduced as the first speaker of the evening Mr. J. C. P. Johnston, who delivered an admirable address He explained the objects of the order to be the better education.

an admirable address. He explained the objects of the order to be the better education, mutual improvement and elevation of stationary engineers. He told about the good results which have flown from the organization in the large cities of the north and west, where the order is strong in numbers and powerful influence. His little speech was heartily applauded.

Mr. S. L. F. Edge, corresponding secretary of the order, was loudly called for and he responded in a happy speech, which evoked round after round of applause. He gave a succinct history of the order. He stated why it was born and described its wonderful growth. He told how it had been instrumental in doing great good to the engineers. He showed how it had elevated the profession, had educated the members, had given relief to the needy, had discountenanced and prevented strikes and had enlarged the independence of its members. He said he knew no reason why the Atlanta division should not become a powerful and influential order.

There was a cessation of speech-making for an hour, during which time the members and their guests gave themselves up to enjoyment. The most delicious confections were an hour, during which time the members and their guests gave themselves up to enjoyment. The most delicious confections were served in abundance. The hour passed off delightfully. A band of music was stationed on a platform and played while the young ladies and their entertainers enjoyed themselves.

Then there was a last in the festivities and Mr. Y. A. Buchanan was called upon for a speech. He responded in his usual pleasing style.

The festivities were kept up till a very late hour.

The order was established just one year ago with four members. It starts its second year with over fifty active members, and several applications for membership will be acted upon at plications for membership will be acted upon at the next meeting.

Mr George T. Long, the efficient engineer of The Constitution building, was active in organizing the division in Atlanta, and its success is largely due to his indefatigable efforts. Last night he was one of the masters of ceremonies, and he was tireless in his efforts to make all have a pleasant time.

During the evening Miss Mary Langston recited a piece called "The Gentleman Drinker," which was loudly applauded. The recitation was done excellently.

The recitation, "The Tired Girl," by Miss Lula Girard, was a very fine performance.

The occasion was one long to be remembered.

day Afternoon.

At four o'clock yesterday afternoon the case of Mr. H. C. Johnson, the young white woman charged with larceny from the house, was continued in Judge Manning's court.

As soon as both sides had announced ready, Mrs. Gray requested on behalf of Mrs. Johnson that all persons not directly interested withdraw from the room.

"Now," said Mr. Gray, "we rest our case upon the statement of Mrs. Johnson made yesterday afternoon."

upon the statement of Mrs. Jonnson made yesterday afternoon."

In rebuttal of her statement, a number of witnesses were examined briefly, but nothing new was developed.

Mr. Gray had introduced no testimony, and made a few opening remarks. Just as he had concluded his remarks, and as the prosecuting attorney rose to reply. Mrs. Johnson fainted. This made it necessary to postpone the case. It will be continued this evening at four o'clock. Mrs. Johnson is still under $100 bond.

A Chance to Secure One of the Lovellest Homes in Atlanta—Sam'l W. Goode & Co.,

For a limited time we offer for sale the late residence and grounds of Mr. J. G. Oglesby, on Richardson street.

This is a gem in every resect.

The house was built by the owner for a home; had eight rooms, and contains every comfort and convenience the architect could devise. The very best material was used in its construction. There is nothing scant about it, and every part of it is solid and substantial. The interior is beautifully finished, There is on the place a servant, house 2-story burn, cow house, stable, poultry hous and vard, and, unlike many places oftered for sale, the cleaset inspection cannot detect the slightest necessity for spending one dollar in improvement or repairs. The entire place is in perfect order. A splendid garden and all varieties of fruits. The lot is large—100 feet front, 205 deep to a 10-foot alley—and surrounding the residence is a lovely blue grass lawn, overspread by one of the most magnificent groves of forest oaks in Georgia. The location is one of the high points of the city; the water is pure and excellent, and the air, free from dust and heat, is always fresh and invigorating. The neighborhood is first-class, comprising such excellent citizen as Colonel John B. Goodwin, Mr. Parkhurst, Mr. Walter R. Brown, Captain Hansell, Mr. Cephus Brown, Mr. Smylie, Messrs, Rich Bros. Mrs. Lowe, Mrs. Kiser, Mr. Moonam Mr. M. Mahoney, Dr. Styles and many others. Paved streets and sidewalisk, gas, water and street cars. New residences are being erected in the vicinity in almost all directions, and enhancement in value of this property is certain. It is seldom so desirable a home is offered for sale. Call to see us, and we will sell you a bargain on liberal terms. If desired, the two beautiful vacant lots, 50x205 each, corner Richardson and Fornwalt streets, west of and adjoining the above property, can be bought with it.

Annual Meeting of the Capital City Land Company.

perous Concern - President Hemphill's Address-The Election of Officers-What the Company is Doing.

The annual meeting of the Capital City Land and Improvement company took place last night in the city council chamber.

Mr. W. A. Hemphill presided, and Mr.

Peter F. Clarke acted as secretary.

The attendance of stockholders was large 5,086 shares being represented. Mr. Jacob Haas, cashier and secretary, sub mitted the subjoined report; and counted the cash of the capital City Land and Improvement company, and find the same correct. Pespecifully submitted, D. MEYER, J. H. KETNER.

To the President and Board of Directors of the Capital City Land and Improvement Company. Gendemen—We, the undersigned committee, personally inspected and aparaised the real estate owned by the Capital City Land and Improvement company and consider $131,800 a fair and equitable valuation for same. Respectively submitted, Chalman, Chalman, mir. W. A. Hempinia, president of the company, spoke as follows:

"Gentlemen—One year has passed since I was elected president of your company. You all remember the most excellent address and report of my predecessor at the last annual meeting. It affords me much pleasure tonight to report to you that the affairs of the company and it good shape. You have had the nast meeting: It affords me much pleasure tonight to report to you that the affairs of tile company are all in good shape. You have had the past year a splendid board of directors, and much is due to their tusiness capacity, good sense, and sound judgment. Two semi-annual dividends of 4 per cent have been declared. The real estate has been reduced. $47,410. Every piece was sold for more than the appraisement. I call your attention to the reports of the real estate and finance committees, which have been printed and are before you. Six months ago, as you all know, we embarked in the banking business. Having rented the best corner in the city for the banking business, our success was assured from the very start. The business has, been very sat sfactory, surpassing our fullest anticipations. We have not made a single bad debt so far. Our collections are large and increasing. Our correspondents are the best in the country.

"Much of our success is due to our efficient cashier, Mr. Jacob Haas. In this connection, I would also commend Mr. Peter Clark, the toller and Mr. Forbes, the bookkeeper.

"While the officers and directors have done well we have not had the heart support of all

"While the officers and directors have done well we have not had the hearty support of all the stockholders that we expected and was entitled to. The cashier and myself addressed a circular letter to every stockholder asking them one and all to give their support to the bank. Some responded promptly, and it was bank. Some responded promptly, and it was a great advantage and help to the bank. If we could get all of our 300 stockholders to in terest themselves and their friends in the Capital City bank, we would soon have the grandest banking institution in the city.

"I call your attention to the savings department. This department has steadily increased, and I have no doubt will grow to large dimensions in a few years.

"I will close this short address by appealing to resident address and the steady of the steady of the saving steady." to every stockholder to stand by the bank, not only to do business with it yourself, but get your friends far and near to bring to it their business. Whenever you have an opportunity talk about it, work for it, and let us kindle an enthusiasm that will place the business away ahead of eight per cent dividends." [Ap-planse.] plause.]

The following directors for the ensuing year were elected unanimously:

W. A. Hemphill, David Mayer, J. C. Hallman, Aaron Haas, C. A. Collier, Louis Gholstin, George W. Parrott, W. H. Clayton, John A. Colvin, J. W. Rankin, John H. Ketner, D. A. Beatie, Henry Wellhouse.

The directors will meet next Thursday to elect officers.

Asper plat. Nos. 1 and 2 front on Peachtree st., 50x120.

This is decidedly the most valuable residence property in the city of Atlanta. It is on "the" street of Atlanta, Peachtree street; on the west side of the street; the next lot to the governor's mansion, and possessing the very best of environments, admired by all land inquired after by all seekers of strictly No. 1 glit edge residence lots.

This class of property can only be bought from estates, living owners will not sell; it is equal to a government gold bond. Such property is just what purchasers want for personal use—homes to keep and live in. The titles are absolutely unquestionable. The purchaser of No. 1 on Peachtree street cun have option of No. 2, and if one party buys both lots, the house can go with the lots; but if different parties buy one and two, the house will be sold separate, to be moved in sixty days. (The house stands on part of both lots.) The same privilege will be given on all the vacant lots.

Buyers are invited to call for plats. Select a lot and attend the sale; all will be sold. It is inst impossible to add anything to the description of this property. Its beauty, worth and value are too self-evident. Terms, ½ cash, 6, 12 and 18 months, 7 per cent.
